THE REPORT of 1788—which, in manuscript, is in the possession of the Editor—was intended to assist William Adam¹ and Henry Erskine² in managing the interests, in Scotland, of the Whig Opposition to the Administration of Pitt and Henry Dundas.³

The name of the compiler, who threw into shape information drawn from many sources, cannot, with certainty, be given: his opinion of the work, and a recommendation respecting its development, are presented in a Note, prefixed to the REPORT, in which he writes:—

“Though this information can only be matured

¹ Right Hon. William Adam, elder son of John Adam of Blair-Adam, born 1751; entered the House of Commons 1774; first held office (Treasurer of the Ordnance) 1780; finally retired from Parliament 1812; on the introduction of trial by jury in civil causes appointed, 1815, Lord Chief-Commissioner of the Jury Court of Scotland; died 1839.

² Hon. Henry Erskine, second son of the tenth Earl of Buchan, born 1746; Lord Advocate in 1783 in the Coalition Ministry, and from 1806 to 1807 in Grenville's Ministry of “all the Talents;” M.P. 1806-1807; Dean of Faculty (usually so designated in the REPORT) 1785-1796; died 1817.

³ Treasurer of the Navy, Member for Mid-Lothian; and all-powerful in Scotland.

by time, it is expected that it will, in its present state, in part answer its object, by giving a general view of the political state of every County in Scotland. Yearly, in the month of October, the Roll of the Freeholders in each County is adjusted, and the necessary alterations, arising from the deaths of individuals, and the purchase and sale of freehold estates, are made. It will therefore be necessary, once a year, to procure copies of the Rolls of the Freeholders of the several Counties, and to renew the following state in conformity thereto.

“The objects, connections, and circumstances of men are perpetually changing, even their characters are not always permanent; on these accounts it will no doubt require constant attention to furnish a statesman, at all times, with a just view of the Scotch Counties; but it may be done, the first state is the most difficult, the alterations on it will be attended with less trouble and expence than the first compilation.”

There is no evidence that the scheme of yearly corrections was carried out, though it may be observed that the Stirlingshire report exhibits the condition of the Roll both in 1788 and in 1789.

The compiler adopted some precautions to secure the manuscript from unauthorised inspection, and arranged, in the event of Adam's early death, that the sheets should either be delivered into proper keeping, or be destroyed.

The considerations, personal and political, which induced the first owners to attach such importance to the custody of their manuscript, have ceased to exist; but the work will still possess a certain value in the eyes of those who are interested in the past of Scottish politics.

A slight knowledge of the system of Election Law which was swept away by the Reform Act of 1832, is necessary for the entire comprehension of the REPORT, and therefore, in the Introduction, the Editor has endeavoured to present a short account of the representation of the counties of Scotland, which will, he hopes, be found useful by some readers who may have been accustomed to devote themselves more to politics than to the study of legal antiquities.

INTRODUCTION.

A SHORT ACCOUNT OF THE LAW RELATING TO THE REPRESENTATION OF THE COUNTIES OF SCOTLAND, IN AND BEFORE THE YEAR 1788.¹

THE Parliament of Scotland at the commencement of the fifteenth century was composed of the three The representation before 1681.

¹ Readers who seek more information regarding the old system of Election Law may be referred to Wight's Enquiry into the Rise and Progress of Parliament, Edinburgh, 1784, or to Bell's Election Laws, Edinburgh, 1812; these are the best works on the subject, and the Editor is under obligations to both. There is a Supplement to Wight's book entitled Election Cases from 1784 to 1796, Edinburgh, 1796; and an edition of his work in 2 vols. was published in 1806. Bell's Dictionary, voce Election Law, contains a sketch of the old Law of Elections. Connell's Election Laws, Edinburgh, 1827, may also be mentioned. The Editor has consulted numerous pamphlets belonging to the period of the REPORT, amongst which he may note the following:—The proposed Reform of the Counties of Scotland impartially examined, by Robert Fergusson, jun., of Craigdarroch, Second Edition, Edinburgh, 1792. Observations on the Election Law of Scotland, said to have been written in 1771 by Alexander Boswell, Lord Auchinleck, privately printed, 1825. Thoughts on the Disqualification of the Eldest Sons of the Peers of Scotland to elect or be elected, by Alexander, Lord Saltoun, London, 1788. Remarks on the Bill which was intended to be brought into Parliament in 1775 for annulling nominal and fictitious Qualifications, anonymous (ascribed in the Catalogue of the Advocates' Library to William Robertson, one estates—the clergy,¹ the barons, and the representatives of the burghs. The estate of the barons, with which alone we are here concerned, included every man holding his land directly of the Crown, for vassals of the King—both great nobles and small freeholders—owed suit and service in the court of their feudal superior.

The obligation to give attendance in Parliament was a burden which the barons endeavoured to evade, and a custom existed of sending substitutes or procurators; the Act 1425, cap. 52, was passed for the discouragement of this practice, and ordered that earls, barons, and freeholders should appear in person, and not by procurator unless they had a lawful excuse.²

of the Deputes of the Lord Clerk-Register), Edinburgh, 1782. Observations on the Laws of Election of Members of Parliament, anonymous, Edinburgh, 1782.

The present volume is not the first published work bearing the title of The Political State of Scotland; the Editor possesses copies of two other books issued before 1832 under this designation. A View of the Political State of Scotland at the late General Election was published at Edinburgh in 1790, no author's name appears on the title-page, but the Catalogue of the Advocates' Library assigns the volume to Alexander Mackenzie. The second work—View of the Political State of Scotland at Michaelmas, 1811, by James Bridges, Edinburgh, 1812—was prepared, according to the statement of its author, on the plan of the volume of 1790; it was reissued in 1813, with a "Supplement exhibiting the Votes at the General Election in 1812." The scope of these two works differs greatly from that of the confidential REPORT of 1788, the information which they furnish respecting the county electorate consists of the bare Rolls of the Freeholders, and, in the cases of contested elections in the years 1790 and 1813, lists of the electors who voted for each candidate; they contain no comments on the condition of the counties, and no details regarding individual voters.

The title, The Political State of Scotland, seems to have been applied to the REPORT of 1788 before the publication of the work of 1790.

¹ The clergy finally disappeared from Parliament on the abolition of Episcopacy in 1689.

² "Item, it is ordained and statute that all Prelates, Erles, Baronnes, and Freeholders of the King within the realme, sen they

But it is not to be supposed that the attendance of the lesser barons could be secured, and two years later a first step towards establishing a system of representation of their class was made by the Act 1427, cap. 101, which relieved them of their attendance on condition that two or more "wise men," to be called "Commissares of the Schire," should be sent to Parliament from each Sherifdom.¹ The prelates and the greater barons were to be summoned by the King's special precept. This Act was not of much effect; the lesser barons neglected to elect commissioners, and consequently remained bound to appear in person. Acts were passed for their relief in 1457 (cap. 75) and 1503 (cap. 78). By the first of these it was enacted that no freeholder holding land valued below £20 should be constrained to come to Parliament, "as for presence," unless he were a baron,² or were specially summoned; by the latter statute, all barons and freeholders, whose estates were within 100 merks³ of new extent,⁴ were relieved of personal attendance (unless the King wrote specially for them), and were not to be unlawed provided that they sent their "procuratours to answer for them, with the Baronnes of the Schire, or the maist famous persons."

These Acts were little regarded by the lesser barons, and during the reigns of James IV., James V., and Mary they attended Parliament in but small numbers, or not at all. It was in the course of the sixteenth century that they began to set a higher value on the rights which they had neglected. In the year 1587 an Act (cap. 114) was passed which established and regulated the representation; it ordered that the Commissioners should be King's freeholders resident within the shire, "and that all Freeholders of the King, under the degree of Prelates and Lords of Parliament, be warned be proclamation to be present at the choosing of the saids Commissioners, and nane to have voit in their election bot sik as hes fourtie shilling land in free-tennendry halden of the King, and hes their actual dwelling and residence within the same schire." This statute purported to confirm the Act 1427; but it exacted a qualification which the earlier Act did not require, inasmuch as it debarred from voting those freeholders whose lands were valued at a less sum than forty shillings. The next Act concerning the qualification was that passed in 1661 (cap. 35), and designed to apply to the proprietors who had obtained possession of the church lands, it enacted "That besides all heritors who hold a fourty shillings land of the King's majesty in capite, that also all heritors, liferenters, and wodsetters,¹ holding of the King, and others who held their lands formerly of the bishops or abbots, and now hold of the King, and whose yearly rent doth amount to ten chalders of victual,² or one thousand pounds (all feu-duties being deducted), shall be, and are capable to vote in the election of commissioners of Parliaments, and to be elected commissioners to Parliaments, excepting alwayes from the act all noblemen and their vassals."

Twenty years after the passing of the last-mentioned The Act 1681. statute, the Act 1681 (cap. 21) placed the representative system on the basis whereon, with but slight alteration, it rested until the Reform Act of 1832. The Act 1681 declared "none shall have vote in the election of commissioners for shires, or stewartries, which shall have been in use to be represented in Parliament and conventions,¹ but those who at that time shall be publickly infeft² in property or superior-

² Infeftment was the formal act of giving possession of feudal property. In modern times the ceremony was usually performed by the bailie of the superior and the attorney of the vassal, who met in the presence of a notary-public and two witnesses on the property in which infeftment was to be given; the attorney handed to the bailie the charter containing the precept of sasine (which precept was a mandate from the superior authorising the infeftment of the vassal in the property), and the bailie delivered earth and stone to the vassal's attorney; as evidence of the infeftment the notary-public drew up an instrument of sasine, which was required to be registered within sixty days. Apparent heirs, in virtue of their predecessors' infeftments, and husbands, in virtue of their wives' infeftments, could vote, although not themselves infeft. The Act 1681 did not require any fixed interval to elapse between infeftment and enrolment as a voter, but the matter was dealt with by later statutes, 12 Anne, cap. 6, and 16 Geo. II. cap. 11, under which Acts infeftment must have been obtained, and the sasine must have been registered, one year before enrolment. The formality of giving infeftment on the lands themselves has been unnecessary since the passing of the Act 8 & 9 Vict. cap. 35.

ity,¹ and in possession of a forty shilling land of old extent,² holden of the King or Prince,³ distinct from the few-duties in few-lands;⁴ or, where the said old extent appears not, shall be infeft in lands lyable in publick burden, for his majesty's supplies, for four hundred pounds of valued rent,⁵ whether kirk-lands, now holden of the King, or other lands holding few, waird, or blench,⁶ off his majesty, as King or Prince of Scotland." The right of voting was allowed to apprisers or adjudgers,⁷ after expiry of the legal; to proper wadsetters;⁸

⁴ Few=feu.

⁵ Valued rent, see p. xix., note.

⁷ An appriser, or adjudger, was a creditor to whom the lands of a debtor had been adjudged as security for a debt. Before the expiration of a certain period (called the legal, or legal reversion), the debtor might redeem his property on payment of the debt and interest; but after expiry of the legal, if the debt were still unpaid, the creditor could convert his security into an irredeemable right. Votes on adjudications were rare.

to apparent heirs;¹ to liferenters;² and to husbands, in right of their wives' freeholds, or of their own liferents by the courtesy.³ If the liferenter did not claim his vote the fiar might vote, but liferenter and fiar might not both vote in respect of the same lands.

The freeholders of each shire were directed to make up the Roll of the Freeholders, and to meet at the head burgh of the shire at Michaelmas yearly thereafter to revise the said Roll. The meetings for the election of commissioners (whether at the Michaelmas head court, or at the calling of Parliament, or conventions) were appointed to be held in the Sheriff Court-room between midday and two in the afternoon.⁴

land whether they were more or less than the amount of the interest on his loan, he was under no obligation to account for his receipts, and could make no claim if the rents were insufficient to pay his interest.

tatives of Scotland in the House of Commons of Great Britain should be forty-five in number, and that these representatives should be chosen in such manner as should be settled by a subsequent Act of the Parliament of Scotland, which Act, it was declared, should be as valid as if it were a part of the Treaty of Union. The Act in question (1707, cap. 8) ordained that thirty of the forty-five representatives should be chosen by the shires (fifteen being allotted to the burghs), one for every shire, "excepting" (in the words of the Act) "the shires of Bute and Caithness, which shall choose one by turns, Bute having the first election; the shires of Nairn and Cromarty which shall also choose by turns, Nairn having the first election; and, in like manner, the shires of Clackmannan and Kinross shall choose by turns, Clackmannan having the first election." ¹

Votes on the old
in 1743.

The Act 16 Geo. II. cap. 16, contained an important provision respecting the qualification on the old extent.² After reciting that, in making up the rolls of electors, difficulties had been caused by persons claiming enrolment without proper evidence of the old extent of their lands, and also, that votes had been unduly multiplied by splitting and dividing the old extent, the Act (sec. 8) declared that no person should be entitled to vote for a shire in respect of the old extent of his lands, unless such old extent were proved by a retour¹ of the lands of a date prior to the 16th of September 1681, and that no division of the old extent made since that day should be allowed to be evidence of the old extent.

² The Old Extent was a valuation of lands, which was used for the purposes of taxation and the ascertainment of the dues payable by vassals to their feudal superiors. Its origin, though obscure, has generally been supposed to date from the reign of Alexander III. The name given to this valuation distinguishes it from the New Extent, the difference between the two valuations being marked in the year 1474 when it was ordained by statute (1474, cap. 10) that retours should state both the old extent and the actual value; if the observance of the statute had been strictly enforced a new valuation should have been taken for every retour, but it became customary, when the new extent had been ascertained, to repeat the amount without alteration in subsequent retours, or, this new extent was estimated by stating it as a multiple, generally the quadruple, of the old extent. Church lands were not taxed under these valuations.

By the same Act (sec. 9) it was enacted that lands rated at £400 Scots of valued rent,² and held of the

The freeholders who were qualified by forty shilling lands of old extent were much less numerous than the possessors of £400 of valued rent.

¹ A Retour was the return, or answer, of a jury, by which, on the death of the possessor of a landed estate, the successor was served, or declared, heir to his ancestor. The form used when the estate had been feudally vested in the ancestor was called a special retour, it was made in answer to a brieve, or writ, issuing from Chancery, and directed to the sheriff of the county; the valent clause of the retour, in which the jury returned the value of the lands, furnished the evidence of the old extent required by the Act 16 Geo. II., and was in these terms:—"Quod prædictæ terræ, cum pertinentibus, valent nunc per annum summam — monetæ Scotiæ" (new extent), "et valuerunt tempore pacis summam — monetæ prædictæ" (old extent). The old forms of service of heirs were superseded by the Statute 10 & 11 Vict. cap. 47.

The term retour is also applied to the return of a jury declaring the value of a district or county; and retours of this class, although not of frequent occurrence, were as good evidence of the old extent as retours of services of heirs.

² By Act of Convention of 15th August 1643 a new valuation was ordered to be prepared by commissioners appointed for the purpose, who were directed to inform themselves of the just and true worth of every person's rent. The new system was adhered to during the Commonwealth, and finally established by the Act of Convention of 23rd January 1667. This Valued Rent, in which church lands were included, superseded the former extents, and became the basis of taxation, according to which the cess, or land-tax, and other assess-

King or Prince, should afford a sufficient qualification, whatever might be the old extent of such lands.¹

Circumstances disqualifying persons for enrolment, or voting.

Various circumstances might disable persons, duly qualified by estate, from being admitted to the roll, or from voting at the election of commissioners. Roman Catholics were incapacitated (Act 1707, cap. 8); as also were persons who, within one year preceding an election, had been twice present at divine service in an Episcopal meeting, whereof the officiating pastor had not taken the oaths to Government, or did not, in express words, pray for the King, his heirs and successors, by name, and for all the Royal Family (19 Geo. II. cap. 38, sec. 12).

The eldest sons of peers of Scotland were incapable of being enrolled for, or of representing, a county or burgh in Scotland.²

ments were levied. Each county was separately valued, and the amount of each proprietor's rent was generally entered in the cess-books of his county in one lump sum, or cumulo. On the imposition of a tax a sum proportioned to its valued rent was required from each county, and that sum was subdivided amongst the proprietors in the county according to their respective cumulos. The division of cumulos was an important duty of the Commissioners of Supply, and became necessary when the ownership of an estate was divided by a sale or other means, or when a proprietor split his property into freehold qualifications (each of not less than £400 of valued rent), in order to bestow votes on his friends. Since 1854 the valued rent has, for most purposes, been superseded by the system of valuing introduced by the Act 17 & 18 Vict. cap. 91.

¹ The qualification by valued rent was by the Act 1681 allowed only where the old extent did not appear, and it had occasionally happened that proprietors whose valued rent amounted to £400 were disqualified because their lands were retoured at less than forty shillings of old extent.

By the Act 22 Geo. III. cap. 41, passed a few years before the REPORT was drawn up, many Government officials connected with the collection of the revenue were disabled from voting at Parliamentary elections. The Act disqualified all commissioners and officers employed in collecting the excise duties, the customs, the duties on stamped vellum, parchment, and paper, on salt, and on windows and houses; also distributors of stamps, officials of the post-office, and officers of mail packets.

boroughs; and, although no decision on the question was given until (1802) after the date of the REPORT, it may be mentioned that the eldest sons of peers of Great Britain could represent counties and burghs in Scotland. Irish peers being regarded as commoners, they and their eldest sons were under no disability. Lord Saltoun in Thoughts on the Disqualification of the Eldest Sons of the Peers of Scotland (1788) writes that "instances of a latitude in the explanation of that disqualification of the eldest sons of peers of Scotland have occurred since the Union. In 1720, William, Lord Strathnaver, predeceased his father, and left a son, William. In 1724 this William, then calling himself Lord Strathnaver, was elected to represent the county of Sutherland, and his right to sit in Parliament was ascertained in respect that the disqualification of peers' eldest sons was exceptio stricti juris. He continued to represent that county until 1733, when, on the death of his grandfather, he became Earl of Sutherland. In what respect can an eldest son, born in lawful wedlock, on the death of his father, ad pacem et fidem regis, be considered, in point of public right or privilege, in a different situation from his father? . . . The case of Lord Strathnaver . . . cannot have been affected by the peculiarity in the county of Sutherland of vassals enjoying the right of voting. . . .

"William, Marquis of Tullibardin, was attainted in 1715. His father, John, Duke of Athol, obtained an Act of Parliament in 1716, conveying the honour of Athol to James, his next son, who was member for Perthshire at his father's death in 1724, when he became Duke of Athol." In 1792, in the case of Lord Daer v. The Freeholders of Wigtown, the claim of an eldest son of a peer of Scotland to be admitted to the Roll was fully discussed, and rejected, by the Court of Session, and the judgment was affirmed by the House of Lords. The disqualification was removed by the Reform Act of 1832.

The qualification of a representative.

The qualification required of the representative was the same¹ as that which was possessed by the elector. No person could be returned as commissioner from a county who was not on the Roll of Freeholders of that county. But electors might be incapable of being elected; the judges, the clergy, sheriff-deputes, and the holders of many offices under the Crown, could not be chosen as commissioners.

"Nominal and fictitious" votes.

Very soon after the Union it was found necessary to deal with the question of the creation of fictitious votes: proprietors of great estates were accustomed to convey lands, in trust, or redeemable for nominal sums, to their political friends, thereby conferring freehold qualifications on persons who possessed no real interest in the lands; to check this practice the Act 12 Anne, cap. 6, provided an oath, which, at the request of any elector, was to be put to a person suspected of holding the qualifying estate in trust; the oath had been in force for twenty years when it was superseded by another of a more searching character, to which frequent reference is made in the REPORT; this second trust-oath, or oath of possession, ran as follows:—

"I, A. B., do, in the presence of God, declare and swear, that the lands and estate of —, for which I claim a right to vote in the election of a member to serve in Parliament for this county, or stewartry, is actually in my possession, and do really and truly belong to me, and is my own proper estate, and is not conveyed to me in trust, or for, or in behalf of any other person whatsoever; and that neither I, nor any person, to my knowledge, in my name, or on my account, or by my allowance, hath given, or intends to give, any promise, obligation, bond, back-bond, or other security whatsoever, other than appears from the tenor and contents of the title upon which I now claim a right to vote, directly or indirectly, for redispensing or reconveying the said lands and estate in any manner of way whatsoever ; or for making the rents or profits thereof forthcoming, to the use or benefit of the person from whom I have acquired the said estate or any other person whatsoever ; and that my title to the said lands and estate is not nominal or fictitious, created or reserved in me in order to enable me to vote for a member to serve in Parliament ; but that the same is a true and real estate in me, for my own use and benefit, and for the use of no other person whatsoever ; and that is the truth, as I shall answer to God."

The Act 7 Geo. II. cap. 16, which introduced this oath, declared that the name of any freeholder who refused to take it should be struck off the roll, and that any person convicted of taking it falsely should be liable to the punishment of perjury. The terms of the trust-oath were comprehensive enough to include, and to check, the before-mentioned practice (of which, indeed, the development might have been arrested by the trust-oath of Anne), but they were found insufficient to deal with other forms of the nominal and fictitious vote.

Under the Act 1681 the right of voting was allowed to a holder of the mere superiority of lands, as well as to a holder of both property and superiority,¹ and, on the disuse of conveyances in trust, it became usual to create votes on mere superiorities ; these qualifications generally took the form of liferents ; and a form of procedure commonly employed in constituting them was as follows: a proprietor holding of the Crown granted a feu-right to a friend (not the person who was to have the vote), and, having resigned the estate into the hands of the superior (the Crown), obtained a charter of resignation; he then gave a liferent of the lands to the intended voter, assigning to him the precept¹ in the charter, and excepting the feu-right from the warrandice;² the liferenter when infeft on this title acquired a liferent of the superiority of the lands; and, by a reconveyance from the friend to whom the feu-right had been given, the original proprietor recovered possession of the property.

At first it was doubted whether the holders of liferents or wadsets of mere superiorities could safely take the oath of possession, but the uncertainty did not long exist, and it became the practice of the nominal freeholders to subscribe the oath when required. In several cases which occurred shortly before the General Election of 1768, the Court of Session, showing a strong inclination to purify the rolls, required freeholders against whom complaints had been preferred to answer interrogatories³ intended to discover the real nature of their qualifications, and, on their refusal, ordered their ² Warrandice, Warranty.

³ In one of the cases (Skene v. Wallace) these particulars were referred to the claimant of the vote by the complaining freeholders:—
1. That he had accepted the qualification for the single purpose of creating a vote. 2. That he had given a security obliging himself to denude in favour of the granter of the qualification when required. 3. That he had paid no value for the conveyance. 4. That he received no profit from the conveyance. 5. That the conveyance had been made at the expense of the granter; and that the claimant had neither expended, nor intended to expend, anything in rendering it effectual; that the titles had never even been delivered to him; and that he took no concern in the complaint against himself. 6. That names to be struck off; but, on appeal to the House of Lords, the decisions in these cases were reversed—a result which established the belief that special interrogatories could not be employed, and caused the trust-oath to be regarded as the sole test of nominality. The numbers of the fictitious voters now increased, almost without check, until the General Election of 1784, when several freeholders of the county of Moray were brought to trial in the Court of Justiciary for perjury, alleged to have been committed in taking the trust-oath at the election meeting.¹ No convictions were obtained in the Morayshire prosecutions, but the movement of which they were an outcome was afterwards more successful. In 1787 (a year before the compilation of the REPORT) some cases involving liferents of superiority were taken from the freeholders' meetings to the Court of Session, and in several the Court, on various grounds, sustained the objections to enrolment. One of the cases having been carried from the Court of Session to the House of Lords (by an appellant whose qualification was derived from the proprietor of a strictly entailed estate), it was ordered by the House “that the cause be remitted back to the Court of Session in Scotland, to hear parties further thereupon, with liberty to receive such new allegations and evidence as the occasion may require.”² The terms of the remit, allowing he understood himself to be bound in conscience to renounce his liferent at any time the granter should ask him.

The claimant, Wallace, had been enrolled on a liferent of superiority from the Earl of Panmure, the feu-duties payable by the vassal being only 6½d.—Wight, p. 263.

¹ Mr. Wm. Leslie and Mr. Lawson, mentioned on pages 4 and 52 of the REPORT, were two of the prosecuted freeholders. The pursuer in the actions was the unsuccessful candidate for the representation of the county.

² Campbell of Blythwood and Tod v. Hon. William Elphinstone (3 Paton, 77). Mr. Elphinstone had been enrolled on a liferent of superi-

"new allegations and evidence," showed a disinclination on the part of the House of Lords to look upon the administration of the trust-oath as the only mode of proof; but, the appellant having renounced his vote, the Court of Session took no further steps in this case; and it was not until the year 1790 (and after the completion of the REPORT) that the employment of interrogatories was expressly authorised, by a decision of the House of Lords in a case arising out of an objection made to an enrolment in 1788.¹

Votes on entailed estates.

The owner of a strictly entailed estate had but a limited power of creating votes, for any alienation of his property—being a breach of the conditions of the entail—might be challenged by the heirs, and exposed him to forfeiture. Conveyances from him were, however, good against all other persons, so that if the heirs ority from Mr. Shaw-Stewart in Renfrewshire; the Court of Session, by the narrowest majority, found that the qualification was nominal and fictitious; and Mr. Elphinstone appealed to the House of Lords.

¹ Sir William Forbes of Craigievar and Others v. Sir John Macpherson (3 Paton, 169). Sir John Macpherson, whose qualification was a liferent of superiority from the Duke of Gordon, had been enrolled by a majority of the freeholders of Aberdeenshire. A complaint was carried to the Court of Session by the objecting freeholders, who proposed that he should be ordered to reply to certain interrogatories. The Court decided that the questions could not be put, and upheld the enrolment (March 1789). On appeal to the House of Lords this judgment was reversed, and the respondent was ordered to answer the interrogatories. Sir J. Macpherson had returned to India before this decision; but, a few months later, some other Aberdeenshire freeholders, qualified in a similar manner, were required to confess or deny the facts which had been referred to him, and, on refusing, or on giving unsatisfactory answers, were struck off the roll.—(Sir William Forbes v. Tait and Others, 15th June 1790, Faculty Collection; Morison, 8770).

These decisions, however fatal to nominal votes then in existence, did not prevent their revival in modified forms. See the cases of Drummond v. Fleming, and Drummond v. Adam, 1808-1813. 26th Jan. 1813, Faculty Collection; 5 Paton, 537. Bell's Election Laws, p. 303; Connell's Election Laws, p. 192.

of entail acquiesced in the alienations, the objections which they had neglected to raise could not be urged against the votes by third parties.

A proprietor might wish to sell his estate and yet desire to retain his vote. In this case the sale would be made subject to a condition that the purchaser, during the lifetime of the granter, should take no step to divest him of the superiority, but should hold the lands as his vassal.

Sale of estate
of the vote.

The principles of the feudal law forbade a superior, except with the vassal's consent, to interpose a superior between himself and his vassal, or to divide the superiority into parts so as to make the vassal hold of more than one superior; and although, in the eighteenth century, after the abolition of ward-holding, a multiplication of his superiors might not have greatly altered the position of a vassal, he could nevertheless, by refusing his consent to a division of the superiority, effectually control the creation of votes on his holding.¹

Multiplication of superiors.

The representation of the county of Sutherland was, in several respects, peculiar; nearly the whole of the county being held of the Earls of Sutherland, the Earl's vassals had been allowed the privileges of electing and of being elected, which, in other counties, were possessed only by duly qualified vassals of the Crown ; and the vassals of other subject-superiors had acquired the same rights. Constant usage had sanctioned the representative system of the county ; but it remained unrecognised by Statute until 1743, at which date various irregular practices existed—votes were claimed by several persons in respect of one qualification, and the amount of the old extent or valued rent of lands was disregarded. According to the Act passed in 1743,¹ a qualification might be constituted by £200 Scots of valued rent (instead of the £400 Scots required in other counties) ; no two persons might be enrolled in respect of the same lands ; lands held of the Crown duly entitled the freeholder to be enrolled,² but did not qualify his vassal ; lands held of the Crown by a person disabled from voting (a peer or body corporate), entitled the owner of the property of the lands to be enrolled, and no alienation of the superiority made by the person under disability deprived such owner of his vote, or qualified the purchaser of the superiority ; and lands of the required valuation, held partly of the Crown and partly of a person under disability, gave a qualification to the owner of the property.

The County of Sutherland.

The procedure
meeting.

On the day appointed for the election of a commissioner from a shire, the freeholders assembled at the head burgh, in the Sheriff Court-room, between midday and two in the afternoon. The Sheriff produced and read the writ (received from the Clerk of the Crown), intimation of which, and of the day of election, he had previously caused to be published at the head burgh of the shire and at each parish church. He then read the statute, 2 Geo. II. cap. 24, against bribery, and also 16 Geo. II. cap. 11, sec. 38, which repealed a portion of the preceding Act; and the Sheriff-clerk, having produced the Roll of Freeholders, and copies of the oaths, the duties of the Sheriff were discharged.

Then the last representative of the county took the chair, and he and all the freeholders qualified by taking the oath of allegiance and signing the assurance, and, if required, by taking the oath of abjuration.¹ In the next place, the last representative took the votes of the meeting for the election of the preses and the clerk, giving, if necessary, a casting vote. If the last representative were absent, the Sheriff-clerk received the votes, and the casting vote belonged to the freeholder who had most recently been elected to Parliament for the shire; if no such person were present, it belonged to the freeholder who had last presided at an election meeting; in his absence, to the freeholder who last presided over a Michaelmas meeting; whom failing, to the freeholder whose name stood first on the roll.

The preses and the clerk having been chosen, the preses took the chair; and the clerk, in addition to the oaths of allegiance and abjuration and the assurance, took an oath against bribery,¹ and might also have been required to take the oath de fidei administratione, whereby he swore that he would discharge his duties faithfully. At this stage the trust-oath² could be put on the demand of any one freeholder ; as also the oath against bribery, if required by any two freeholders or by a candidate ; any elector might, moreover, be tested by means of the formula, and the oath regarding attendance at a non-juring Episcopal meeting.¹ After these formalities the meeting undertook the adjustment of the Roll ; the names of those who had died or had become disqualified were struck out, and the names of qualified claimants were added—disputed points being decided by a majority of votes. The new Roll being complete, the freeholders proceeded to choose their representative—the preses called over the names set down in the Roll, and took the votes of the freeholders present at the meeting, having himself, in the event of an equality, a casting vote in addition to his vote as a freeholder.

² The trust-oath might be put at any later stage of the proceedings, but it could not, in 1788, have been put before the preses and clerk had been chosen. Freeholders who would refuse to take the trust-oath might thus have voted in the choice of the preses, and the casting vote of a preses might decide, and frequently did decide, an election. This state of matters was remedied by the Act 37 Geo. III. cap. 138, which provided that it should be lawful for any freeholder to put the trust-oath to any person who offered to vote in the election of the preses and clerk.

The name of the person elected having been declared by the preses, it was the duty of the clerk to make a return of the same to the Sheriff, which return was by the Sheriff transmitted to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

If the representative elected were not present at the meeting, he was obliged, before taking his seat in Parliament, to take the trust-oath in the presence of the Lord Steward, or of some person delegated by the Lord Steward.

The decisions of the freeholders at the Michaelmas head court, held annually for the adjustment of the Roll, were subject to the review of the Court of Session ; but a Committee of the House of Commons reviewed the proceedings at an election meeting.

AIR-SHIRE.

IN this County there are a great many independant Freeholders, and there are several individuals who, from the extent of their estates as well as family connections, have great weight.

One of the greatest interests is that of the Earl of Eglinton, who has a very great estate quite free of debt, and is also connected with many of the voters. He has been twice married—1st. to a daughter of the late Earl of Crawford, who died; 2nd. to an English lady, Miss Twysden, but they live apart. He has two daughters by his last wife, to the eldest of whom a part of his estate will descend; but the greater part of it will go to Colonel Hugh Montgomerie of Coylsfield, who succeeds to the title, and at present represents the County. The Earl has lately divided with H.R.H. the Prince of Wales's friends against Mr. Pitt, but he was bound by a previous agreement to support Sir Adam Fergusson, the Ministerial candidate at next election, and he will certainly do this, less from inclination than from an adherence to his agreement with Sir Adam.

The Earl of Cassillis has also a great estate and many friends in this County, and the candidate who stands in opposition to Sir Adam Fergusson is Sir Andrew Cathcart, the Earl of Cassillis' cousin. Lord Cassillis has few made votes, but could make many. He has no family, and his estate goes to a very distant relation, Captain Kennedy.

The Earl of Glencairn, as will appear from the Roll, has several votes in this County, and a considerable estate. He has also an estate in Renfrewshire, which see. He supports Sir Andrew Cathcart.

The Earl of Dumfries also supports Sir Andrew Cathcart. He has also many votes and a considerable estate. He has an only daughter.

The Countess of Lowdon, who is an infant, has also a considerable estate and a natural influence in this County, though no made votes. Lord Dumfries is one of the Countess's Tutors.

Miss Scott, the niece of Mr. Dundas, has an immense estate in this County, but she is also a minor, and no votes made.

Sir Adam Fergusson, as appears from the Roll, has a great estate, many votes, and some influence. He is an able man, and of a respectable character; but though he has been long in Parliament, and is a Lawyer, no provision has been made for him by Mr. Pitt. He has a brother in London, a Merchant, with a family, who succeeds him. His youngest brother George is a batchelor, one of the Commissary Judges of Edinburgh, and a Lawyer in good practice, connected a good deal with Mr. Dundas, and has much to say with Sir Adam.

Sir John Whitefoord, as appears from the Roll, has also many votes in this County. His estate, though a good one, is entailed. He has a family. He has separated from Sir Adam, whom he once supported, and is desirous of representing the County himself.

Mr. M'Adam of Craigengillan; and his son-in-law, Mr. Forbes of Callendar, the great contractor for coppering ships; have also large estates in this County, on which freehold qualifications to vote might be made. They support Sir Andrew.

The other proprietors of consequence will appear from the following Roll of the Freeholders made up at Michaelmas, 1788:—

Votes of the Earl of Eglinton.

ARGYLL.

THE great, or, more properly speaking, the only interest in this County is that of the Duke of Argyll. Most of the Freeholders are of the Duke's family and name, and are also personally attached to him.

The greatest part of them have very near connections in the Army or Navy. Many of them are active enterprising men, desirous of promotion, and the Duke, it is thought, would be in a very troublesome situation unless he was acting with the Administration.

Mr. Lamont of Lamont has the only other estate in the County on which a great number of votes could be made; but it is thought that the Duke could make many more; and though Mr. Lamont's inclinations and sentiments are friendly to the Opposition, he has also a personal regard and friendship for the Duke of Argyll.

The Roll of Freeholders at Michaelmas, 1788, was as follows :—

Votes of the Duke of Argyll.

1. COLONEL ADAM LIVINGSTONE.
2. ILAY CAMPBELL, Advocate.
Now Lord Advocate.
3. WILLIAM CAMPBELL.
Son of William Campbell, brother of the late Duke of Argyll. [The fee under certain limitations to James Ferrier, W.S.]
4. JOHN CAMPBELL.
Also son of the said William the elder. [The fee to Alexander Campbell Baillie of Kintyre.]

Votes of Mr. Lamont.

5. COLONEL CHARLES CAMPBELL, Barbreck.
This is a vote made by Lamont. The Colonel has also a great property estate, though perhaps not freehold, in the County. Has a son married to Lord Frederick Campbell's daughter. Has two sons in the Army.
6. WILLIAM M'DONALD, W.S.
Vote of Lamont's.
7. JOHN LAMONT of Lamont.
An independant estate. Opposition principles. Has great expectations from Dr. Lamont, London. A family. Lives in friendship with the Duke. See observations at the beginning of this County.
8. COLONEL HUGH MONTGOMERIE.

9. ANGUS M'ALISTER of Loup.
A small estate. A family.
10. JOHN M'NEIL of Ardelay.

B A M F.

THE greatest interest in this County is that of the Earl of Fife, who has a great estate, and much political influence in the north of Scotland, and whose political conduct and objects are well known. His son, Sir James Duff, represented this County, but in consequence of dividing against Mr. Pitt on the questions respecting the Regency, he resigned his seat, and James Ferguson of Pitfour, the candidate for Aberdeenshire, at present represents the County.

The Duke of Gordon, who is at present in the same political interest with the Earl of Fife, has also a great influence in this County.

These two families (and indeed the Earl of Fife singly) overshadow all the small and independant proprietors.

The Roll of Freeholders at Michaelmas, 1788, was as follows :—

Votes of the Earl of Fife.

1. JAMES, EARL OF FIFE.

BERWICKSHIRE.

THE leading interest in this County is that of the Earl of Marchmont. In consequence of a difference about an Election, his Lordship is said to have excluded the family of his sister, Mrs. Scott of Harden, and to have settled his estates on Mrs. Anstruther Paterson, the daughter of another sister by Sir John Paterson, and wife of Mr. Anstruther, the brother of John Anstruther, the English Counsellor. She has no children, and, failing her, the estate goes to Sir Alexander Purves, the Earl's nephew by another sister.

The Earl of Home, a minor, though he has not a large estate, it is believed might make a good many votes on superiority. His Lordship is very much directed by Lord Elphinstone and his brother, who are his Tutors.

The other interests will appear from the Roll made up at Michaelmas, 1788, viz. :---

Votes of the Earl of Marchmont.

1. LIEUTENANT ARCHIBALD DICKSON.
2. CAPTAIN JAMES BURNET of the Marines.

Votes of the Earl of Marchmont (continued).

THE leading interest in this County is that of the family of the Earl of Bute, who at present has the total command of the County. Lord Mountstuart, the Earl's eldest son, is one of the most popular and respected characters in Scotland.

The Duke of Hamilton, proprietor of the Island of Arran, has also freehold superiorities in the County, and might make votes.

The Earl of Eglinton and Duke of Argyll are believed also to have some superiority in the County.

The Roll made up at Michaelmas, 1788, is as follows:—

Votes of the Earl of Bute.

1. RIGHT HONBLE. JAMES STUART M'KENZIE, Lord Privy Seal of Scotland.
Brother to the Earl of Bute.
2. HONBLE. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL JAMES STUART of Ardmallish.

CROMARTY.

THE leading interests in this County are—

1. Robert Bruce Æneas M'Leod of Cadboll, who has a great estate in this County. Is perfectly independant. Lately admitted a Lawyer; dedicated his Thesis to Lord Gower. A good deal directed by Lord Ankerville and M'Leod of Geanies. A friend of Brodie the nabob, who, it is said, is to be the candidate against Mr. Ross Gray; but it is not known that he has yet engaged.*

2. John M'Kenzie, Esq., commonly called Lord M'Leod, the relation and personal friend of Mr. Dundas, who got back his estate during Mr. Pitt's Ministry. Married a daughter of Lord Forbes. Just dying. Captain M'Kenzie, his cousin, his heir.

3. Alexander Ross, formerly Gray, of Cromarty, who has a very great estate in this County, and is said to have a large fortune; but his affairs not wound up. His sister is married to Mr. Oswald of Dunnikier. He is an Army agent. It is thought that he will be the candidate for the County, and that he will be opposed by Mr. Alexander Brodie, the nabob, the brother of Brodie of Brodie, who will be ready to be inrolled in November or December next (1789), and who, it is said, will be supported by Mr. Dundas.

* Is now for Mr. Brodie; is a Pittite.

The Roll at Michaelmas, 1788, was as follows:—

Votes of M'Leod of Cadboll.

1. ROBERT BRUCE ÆNEAS M'LEOD of Cadboll aforesaid.
Inrolled as heir of Roderick M'Leod, his father.
2. HONBLE. DAVID ROSS of Ankerville.
One of the Lords of Session. Inrolled on a wadset from Roderick M'Leod of Cadboll. Will not swear.
3. DAVID ROSS, Captain in the late 95th Regiment.

6. CAPTAIN JAMES FRASER of Culduthill.
On a conveyance from George Ross of Cromarty. Doubted if he will swear. Has a good estate in Inverness-shire.

Individuals.

7. DONALD M'LEOD of Geanies.

This seems to be a vote on a conveyance from Mr. Ross of Cromarty, and Mr. M'Leod has only right to vote in absence of Mr. W. Pulteney, but Mr. M'Leod is understood to be a real voter. He is pretty independant in his circumstances. A keen friend of Mr. Fox. He is married to a sister of the Countess of Dumfries, by whom he has a family. He is Sheriff of Ross-shire. Has much to say with M'Leod of Cadboll, who has a leading interest in this County, and is himself a good deal influenced by Ross of Ankerville, one of the Lords of Session, and of Opposition principles.

8. DUNCAN DAVIDSON of Tulloch.

A West India merchant. Rich. One son. May wish to represent the County himself.

9. DAVID URQUHART of Braelangwell.

In right of his wife, Henrietta Gordon of Newhall. Made a fortune in India. Married the cousin of Mr. Dundas, the widow of Commissioner Lockhart. It is thought will go with Brodie.

10. JOHN M'KENZIE (Lord M'Leod) aforesaid.

The following voters are still on the Roll, though supposed to be divested:—

11. HUGH ROSE of Aitnach.

A vote from Lord Elibank. Would not take the trust oath. Thought divested. Estate sold to Mr. Ross of Cromarty.

12. WILLIAM PULTENEY of Bathhouse.

A vote from Lord Elibank. Never came to the County. Thought to be renounced. The estate sold to Mr. Ross of Cromarty.

13. MR. JOHN M'INTOSH.

Ready to be inrolled in November or December next (1789):—

MR. ALEXANDER BRODIE.

The brother of Brodie of Brodie. Made a fortune in India. Supposed will be the Ministerial candidate.

DUMBARTON.

THE leading interests in this County are—

1. Lord Elphinstone, who can make twenty or twenty-one votes. His Lordship supports Mr. Pitt's Ministry, but is a respectable and popular character. He was wounded in His Majesty's service when young, but has been long out of the Army. He has a large family. His eldest son very young, a Captain in the Army; the second in the Navy; two sons infants, and four daughters very young. His connections are almost all in Opposition, viz., Captain Keith Elphinstone, his brother, the present Member for this County, and Mr. William Adam, who is married to his sister. His brother William is an India Director. A sister married to Mr. Drummond of Perth, who is a Pittite.

2. The Duke of Montrose, and his son, the Marquis of Graham, whose political character and connections are well known. Can make sixteen or eighteen votes, and, with consent of Sir James Colquhoun, could make as many more.

3. Sir James Colquhoun of Luss, one of the Clerks of Session. Can make nearly seven votes, and can check the Marquis of Graham from making sixteen or eighteen. Sir James has a very large estate, but will increase it by his economy. He is married. Has a brother in the Guards, another in the Army. He is Sheriff of the County, and wishes for a Judge's gown in one of the higher Courts of Scotland.

4. The Duke of Argyll, who can make seven votes.

5. Sir Archibald Edmonstone, who is at present in Parliament. Has a large fortune. Supports Mr. Pitt, and is well known. Can make five votes.

6. Lord Blantyre, who is a minor, can make four votes.

7. John Campbell of Stonefield, one of the Lords of Session. Can make three votes. He has a pretty good estate, and an only son. He is equally attached to the Duke of Argyll and Lord Mountstuart, and is also a relation and friend of Lord Elphinstone, but, in this County, will support the Duke of Argyll.

8. Mr. Smollett Telfer of Bonhill. Can make three votes. He has a son in the Army. A family and brothers to provide for. A pretty good estate, but entailed. He is attached to Lord Elphinstone, and will probably go with him. He is married to a sister of Renton of Lammerton.

9. Mr. Ilay Campbell, the Lord Advocate for Scotland, and his father, who can make three votes. They have a very good estate betwixt them in this County. The Advocate has also money. He has a large family, and a brother he wishes to provide for.

10. Miss Buchanan of Drumakiln has a pretty tolerable estate, and can make two votes. She is much directed by Mr. Buchanan of Catter and Mr. Ferrier, W.S.

11. Mr. Ferguson of Raith can make nearly two votes. He is a very opulent man. Married a sister of the Countess of Dumfries. Of Opposition principles.

12. Mr. Haldane of Gleneagles. Can make three votes. His first wife was a connection of Sir Thomas Dundas, but he is not much attached to any party. His present wife is a connection of the Drummonds, the Bankers. He has a pretty good estate.

13. Mr. Graham of Gartmore. Can make three votes. He has a pretty good fortune, and is keenly attached to Opposition.

14. Captain Keith Elphinstone, the present Member for the County. Can make nearly two votes. His political character, as well as his private worth and merit as a sea-officer, are well known. It has been settled betwixt the Marquis of Graham and Lord Elphinstone, who at present have the command of this County, that the Marquis shall name the Member at next Election, and it is supposed he will name the Lord Advocate.*

* The Lord Advocate has since been made President of the Session, and it is but fair to say that his impartiality, as well as his abilities, have given satisfaction to men of all parties. His brother is now Lord Provost of Glasgow, and is much esteemed there for the mildness of his temper and integrity of his character.

The Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of Lord Elphinstone.

1. CHARLES THOMSON, Edinburgh.
2. WILLIAM BAILLIE, Biggar.
3. CAPTAIN DAVID BALLINGAL.
4. PATRICK DOWNIE, Prestonpans.

43. MAJOR TELFER, his brother.

Votes of Mr. Haldane.

- 44. MR. HALDANE of Gleneagles, before mentioned.
- 45. JAMES FOGO, Writer, Edinburgh.

Votes of Ilay Campbell.

- 46. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL of Succoth.
- 47. ILAY CAMPBELL, Lord Advocate.

Votes of Sir J. Colquhoun.

- 48. SIR JAMES COLQUHOUN, before mentioned.
- 49. MAJOR LUDOVICK COLQUHOUN, his brother.

Votes of Lord Stonefield.

- 50. JOHN CAMPBELL, Lord Stonefield aforesaid.
- 51. CAPTAIN COLIN CAMPBELL, his son.

Individuals.

- 52. WILLIAM ADAM, of Woodstone, younger of Blair; for whose use this compilation is meant.
- 53. COLIN DOUGLAS of Mains.
An independant man. Connected with the Lord Advocate. Went last with Lord Graham and Captain Elphinstone. Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell of Blythswood, in Renfrewshire, is his nephew and presumptive heir, whom he would wish to serve.
- 54. ROBERT GRAHAM of Gartmore aforesaid.
- 55. MR. BUCHANAN of Drumhead.
A small estate. Went last with the Duke of Argyll. Will probably go with Administration. (Enquire if he has not an office in the Customs.)

56. MR. DONALD of Lyleston.

In the very same situation with the last. The affairs of his brother, Provost Donald of Glasgow, are embarrassed.

57. CAPTAIN NOBIL of Nobil-farm.

Captain of a merchantman. Small estate. Went last with the Duke of Argyll. Will probably go with Administration. Captain Elphinstone will have to say.

58. LORD FREDERICK CAMPBELL.

Brother of the Duke of Argyll. Has sold his estate in this County to the Duke. Possibly has retained the vote.

59. MR. CAMPBELL of Peaton.

A very small property. Went, and will probably go, with the Duke of Argyll, or rather, with Administration for the time being.

60. MR. YUILLE of Darleith.

Small estate, but pretty independant. A family. A son, a merchant. A daughter married to a merchant, Glasgow. Went last with the Duke of Argyll. Married a daughter of George Murdoch, Glasgow, who got an office through Argyll.

61. MR. BUCHANAN of Catter.

Estate advertised for sale. Went last with Lord Graham.

62. THOMAS BUCHANAN of Ardoch.

Very independant man. A hatter in Glasgow. Purchased a vote since last Election. Will lean to Lord Graham.

63. MR. SMYTHE of Methven.

The Sheriff of Perth. A pretty good estate.

Has a family. Looks for preferment in the Law. Connected with Lord Graham. A sensible man.

64. JOHN HAMILTON of Barns.

A pretty good estate. His eldest son married Miss Dun of Tannochside. His chief object is to provide for his second son, a Captain in the Army, with a family. Went last with the Duke of Argyll. Will likely go with Administration.

65. JAMES COLQUHOUN of Garscadden.

A batchelor. A very independant fortune. Can want nothing, but is very whimsical. Will go with Lord Elphinstone or Lord Graham.

66. JOHN GARTSHORE of Gartshore.

A batchelor. Independant. Would go with Lord Elphinstone, but never qualifies by taking the oaths to Government.

DUMFRIES.

THE chief, and at present the commanding, interest in this County is that of the Duke of Queensberry. The Duke has no children, and, in case of his failure without issue, the Duke of Buccleugh gets great part of his fortune.

The Marquis of Annandale has a great estate in this County; but the Marquis is insane, and his affairs are chiefly under the direction of the Earl of Hopetoun, who succeeds to him.

The Duke of Buccleugh has also a considerable estate in Dumfriesshire, and a considerable interest.

Viscount Stormont has also a considerable estate here, and could make votes.

The other interests will appear from the Roll at Michaelmas, 1788:—

Votes of the Duke of Queensberry.

1. CHARLES DOUGLAS in Holmhill.

Supervisor-General of Salt Duties, so disqualified.

2. MATTHEW CAMPBELL, Sheriff-Substitute of Wigton.

Votes of the Duke of Queensberry (continued).

3. LIEUTENANT JOHN M'MURDO, Chamberlain to the Duke.
4. ROBERT MAXWELL of Cargen.
His affairs embarrassed.
5. HUGH CORRIE, W.S.
Doubt if he will swear.

Votes of Lord Eliock.

6. HONBLE. JAMES VEITCH, Lord of Session (Eliock).
An independant man. Steadily attached to Opposition. Has much influence in this County, but is rather old and infirm.
7. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, W.S.
Doubt if he will swear.
8. WILLIAM MAXWELL, second son of Maxwell of Terraughty.
9. DR. JAMES HUNTER, Physician in Edinburgh.
10. THOMAS GOLDIE, Writer in Dumfries.
Doubt if he will swear.
11. ARCHIBALD GOLDIE in Shaws of Tinwald.
Doubt if he will swear.

Votes of Mr. Pulteney.

12. WILLIAM PULTENEY, Esq. of Bathhouse.
13. SAMUEL MITCHELSON, W.S.
A liferent vote from Mr. Pulteney. Made a Clerk of Session through Mr. Dundas.

Votes of Sir James Johnstone.

14. SIR JAMES JOHNSTONE, Baronet.
 Brother of Mr. Pulteney. In Parliament from the Burghs in this County. A very independant, honest character.
15. RICHARD BEMPDÈ JOHNSTONE.
 Son of the late Colonel Johnstone. Wadset vote from Sir James.

Votes of Sir James Kirkpatrick.

16. SIR JAMES KIRKPATRICK of Closeburn, Baronet.
 Sold greatest part of his estate, but thought to have still a vote on the estate of Capenoch. No party man. Understood to go with the Duke of Queensberry. His affairs rather embarrassed. A Lawyer. Never practises. A respectable man.
17. GEORGE KIRKPATRICK, Depute-Clerk of Session.
 Supposed to be a vote from his brother, the last voter, but that estate sold, and the vote supposed to be thrown up. A batchelor. Connected with Lord Alva. Independant.

Individuals.

18. JOHN MACKIE of Palgowan.
 An old gentleman. Has a Revenue office in the Stamps in England. Will, it is said, be influenced by Lord Sandwich. Much respected in Scotland.
19. JOHN CARRUTHERS of Holmains.
 This estate and vote sold to James M'Crae, Esq., cousin of the Earl of Glencairn, who will have influence with him. He has a pretty good fortune. Married Miss Lemaitre. No children.

20. JAMES CARRUTHERS of Warmanbie.
Unconnected. Independant. Lives in Edinburgh. No family.
21. WILLIAM ELLIOT of Arkleton.
22. SIR WILLIAM MAXWELL of Springkell, Baronet.
Independant. Brother-in-law to Mr. Shaw Stewart, the Member for Renfrewshire. Though inclined to Opposition, attached to the Duke of Buccleugh.
23. DAVID ARMSTRONG, Advocate.
He resigned his Sheriffship of this County. Conferred on his son, through the Duke of Queensberry, with whom he will go.
24. SIR ROBERT LAWRIE of Maxwelton, Baronet.
Present Member for the County. Will go with the Duke of Queensberry.
25. SIR ROBERT GRIERSON of Lag, Baronet.
A small estate, but independant. Little connected in the County. Married a sister of Robert Dalryell of Glenae, Advocate, and so connected with the Dean of Faculty. Has a brother unemployed, once a merchant in Glasgow.
26. JOHN MURRAY of Murraythwaite.
Lives in Edinburgh. Looked to a Commissionership of the Excise from the Duke of Portland. Will go with that party.
27. SIR JOHN CLERK of Pennycuik, Baronet.
Great estate in Mid-Lothian. No family. His brother his heir. A very independant family.
28. WILLIAM COPLAND of Colliston, Advocate.
A very independant man. Great estate in Kirkcudbrightshire. Wishes to provide for a brother-in-law. An only daughter.

29. ROBERT WIGHTMAN HENDERSON of Penlaw.

30. CHARLES SHARP of Hoddam.

Is said to have expected the Sheriffship of the County. A moderate estate. A family.
Married a sister of Renton of Lammerton in Berwickshire. A Lawyer. Never practises.
Will lean to the Duke of Queensberry.
Keeper of the Harriers to the Prince of Wales.

31. WILLIAM JARDINE of Applegirth.

Rich. One son. Separated from his wife.
Will lean against the Duke of Queensberry.

32. ALEXANDER FERGUSON of Craigdarroch, Advocate.

His estate sold, and purchased in for his son.
Seems to have retained the vote. Attached to the Dean of Faculty and Opposition.

33. THE REV. DR. ANDREW HUNTER of Barjarg.

Professor of Divinity in Edinburgh. Married a sister of Lord Napier. Brother to John Hunter, W.S., who wishes well to Opposition.

34. JOHN JOHNSTONE of Denovan.

Immensely rich. The brother of Mr. Pulteney.

35. JOHN MAXWELL of Terraughty.

A vote from Maxwell of Munches, who is a Papist. Mr. Constable will have influence.
Mr. Maxwell of Terraughty rather leans against the Duke.

36. GEORGE MILLIGAN JOHNSTON of Corhead.

A merchant in Jamaica. Now in Dumfries.
Rich. A family. A new proprietor.

37. CHARLES CHARTERIS of Amisfield.
Old. Not rich. Thought will go with the Duke of Queensberry.
38. WELLWOOD MAXWELL of Barncleugh.
Once Collector of Customs, Dumfries. Turned out by the Duke of Queensberry. Independent. A family.
39. JAMES IRVING of Gribton.
A moderate estate. Has a family. Will go with the Duke of Queensberry.
40. GEORGE HOGGAN of Waterside.
Very rich. From the East Indies. No family. Will take his own way. Not much connected in the County.
41. SIR ROBERT HERRIES, the great Banker in London.
42. JOHN BUSHBY, the Sheriff-Clerk of this County.
Not rich. Very able. A son at the Bar, who votes in his absence. Connected with Lord Maitland, the Earl of Galloway's family, and Mr. Murray of Broughton. Will be influenced by views of preferment to his son, who has a good estate, and means to make votes in this County. Mr. Bushby might be of great use to a party in this County, in Kirkcudbright, and perhaps in Wigton.
43. GEORGE JOHNSTON of Cowhill.
A new proprietor. Independent. Once a merchant in Liverpool.
44. PATRICK MILLER of Dalswinton.
A very respectable man. Made his fortune as a banker in Edinburgh. A brother of Sir Thomas Miller, the President. His son is a candidate for the Burghs of this County on the Duke of Queensberry's interest. Mr. Miller is a very able man. Thought not averse to Opposition. Would be a respectable Member of Parliament, and it is thought, through his friend and partner, Mr. Ramsay of Barnton, could sway the City of Edinburgh at an election.

45. COLONEL PAULUS EMILIUS IRVING of Woodhouse.
An officer in the Army. Not much in this County. Pretty independant. In his absence his son, Lieutenant-Colonel Paulus Emilius Irving, to vote.
46. PETER JOHNSTON of Carnsalloch.
An English Counsellor. Will go with the Galloway family.

The following, though enrolled, are denuded of their votes, and may be struck off:—

47. STAIR DOUGLAS of the Navy.
Son of Sir John Douglas.
48. ARCHIBALD MALCOLM of Hayfield.
A Writer in Dumfries.
49. ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS of Douglas.

The following three votes, from Mr. Maitland of Eccles, are also renounced, and may be struck off:—

50. THOMAS MAITLAND of Soutra.
51. THOMAS BUSHBY of Ardwall.
52. HONBLE. KEITH STEWART.

EDINBURGH OR MID-LOTHIAN.

1. The leading interest in this County should be that of the Duke of Buccleugh, who can make by far the greatest number of votes, and is universally respected.

2. The Marquis of Lothian has also a considerable interest, and can make many votes.

3. Sir John Dalrymple of Cousland, one of the Barons of Exchequer. Of Opposition principles. Has a very large estate, and can make many votes. Obligated to Lord North and Sir Gray Cooper.

4. The Solicitor-General, Mr. Dundas of Arniston, has also a considerable estate and good interest. He is the nephew, and son-in-law, of Mr. Dundas. Can make a good many votes, and is very deservedly respected.

5. The Earl of Wemyss has also a great estate in this County. Quite free, and very rich. His son, Lord Elcho, is of Opposition principles. They could make many votes.

6. Sir John Clerk of Pennycuick. A very independent man, and with a considerable interest in this County. He has a very great estate free of debt. No family, and could make many votes. His brother is his heir. Connected with Sir John Inglis. Leans to Opposition.

7. Mr. Wauchope of Edmonstone has a good estate, and can make several votes. Has a son a Lawyer. Connected with Sir John Inglis of Cramond and Mr. Wauchope of Niddry.

8. Sir William Dick of Prestonfield, Baronet. Lately married Miss Douglas, an heiress, through whom he is connected with the Trotters of Morton-hall. Has a great estate, and can make many votes.

9. The Earl of Abercorn has also a considerable estate, on which several votes are, and more might be, made.

10. The Earl of Morton, and

11. The Earl of Lauderdale, have also estates on which they might make votes; as has

12. The Earl of Dalhousie, who is a minor.

13. The Honourable William Elphinstone, one of the Directors of the India Company (see Dumbar-tonshire), in right of his wife has a good estate on which several votes might be made.

14. Charles Watson of Saughton, himself a near relation of the Earl of Hopetoun, married a sister of Lady Hopetoun's. Is very independant, and can make votes.

15. Mr. Callender of Crichton. Made his fortune in India. Purchased his estate, and can make several votes. Is unmarried. John Higgins, W.S., his nephew.

16. The Earl of Rosebery has also a very considerable estate, and can make several votes.

17. Mr. Dewar of Vogrie. A young man. About to admit Lawyer. Has also an independant fortune, and can make votes. He is in friendship with the Dean of Faculty, and also with Mr. Dundas, the Solicitor-General.

18. Mr. Trotter of Mortonhall has a very good estate here and in Berwickshire. Sons in the Army. A son a Writer to the Signet. Son-in-law, Charles Gordon, Clerk of Session through the Duke of Gordon. A granddaughter married to Sir William Dick in this County. Can make several votes.

19. Mr. Ramsay of Barnton. Has lately acquired a great estate in this County. He is at present on distant terms with Mr. Dundas, but is quite independant. Made his fortune as a Banker in Edinburgh, and is supposed to have the command of the election of the City of Edinburgh. See note on his partner, Patrick Miller, Esq., in Dumfriesshire.

20. Sir Alexander Gilmour has also a large estate, on which several votes might be made. He long represented the County; but his affairs are in disorder. His next heir is Mr. Charles Little of Libberton, Advocate, who, it is believed, will lean to Opposition; he is pretty independant; has a family; a son in the Army.

21. Miss Gibson, the heiress of Sir Alexander Gibson of Pentland (her mother the sister of Mr.

Watson of Saughton), has a good estate on which votes might be made.

22. The Earl of Moray has also a good estate, on which several votes might be made ; as have

23. Mr. Mitchelson of Middleton, and his heir, Mr. Hepburn of Clerkington, who has been made a Commissioner of the Customs through Mr. Dundas.

24. Mr. Wauchope of Niddry has also a good estate on which votes might be made. He is independant, and connected with Mr. Dundas. He has a brother John, W.S., very generally liked and much employed. Mr. Blair the Lawyer and he married two sisters.

25. Mr. Durham Calderwood of Polton has also a good estate on which several votes might be made. He has also a considerable estate in Fifeshire. The family supports the Dean of Faculty's interest. The eldest married, but no children; the second in India; another at home, in the Navy.

26. The Marquis of Tweeddale has a small estate in this County on which votes could be made. His Lordship has an independant fortune. Married a sister of Lord Maitland. With Opposition. His brother once in the Guards; sold out; now living on his estate at home. A sister married to Allan M'Dougal, W.S., who wants a Clerkship of Session.

27. Lord Torphichen, an officer in the Army, with a small estate. Can also make three or four votes.

These are the principal interests in this County. The others will appear from the Roll after inserted.

It will take a very powerful combination to shake the interest of

Mr. Dundas of Melville, the Treasurer of the Navy, the present Member for the County, who can make three votes on his own estate, and who, independant of the interest of his family (Dundas of Arniston), has great personal influence in this County, though there are also many who are not his friends.

Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of the Earl of Abercorn.

1. HONBLE. and REVD. MR. GEORGE HAMILTON.
Brother of Lord Abercorn. Will not come down to vote, being very old.

16. THOMAS CRAIG of Riccarton.
A very independant estate. Can make several votes. A brother one of the Commissary Judges of Edinburgh. Connected with Mr. Dundas.
17. CHARLES HOPE VERE of Craigiehall.
The uncle of Lord Hopetoun. Sons and grandsons in the Army, Navy, and Law; all to provide for, as the estate is entailed. His grandson Charles a rising Lawyer.

18. WILLIAM TYTLER of Woodhouslee, W.S.
Independent estate. His son, a Lawyer, made Professor in Edinburgh College.
Will lean to Mr. Dundas.
19. SIR DAVID DALRYMPLE of Hailes, Baronet.
Lord Hailes in the Court of Session. Pretty independent. Had pretensions to be made Lord Justice-Clerk. First married to a sister of Charles Brown of Coalston, Advoca-cate, now to a sister of Sir Adam Fergusson.
Has two daughters.
20. JOHN CHRISTIE of Baberton.
Old man. Dying. Made his fortune by a lottery ticket. No family. An independent but small estate. His nephew, a son of Dr. Christie, Inveresk, his heir. Another nephew, Mr. Ewart, writer in Sir James Erskine's office, Chancery.
21. SIR JOHN DALRYMPLE of Cousland, aforesaid.
22. DR. COLIN DRUMMOND.
A Physician some time in Edinburgh. Votes in right of his wife. Now in Bristol. Son of Provost Drummond. Has expectations from a brother near Bristol.
23. JAMES DEWAR of Vogrie.
Now dead. His son, before mentioned, not of age.
24. SIR ALEXANDER GILMOUR, before mentioned.
25. WILLIAM HOPE VERE, younger of Craigiehall.
Cousin-german to Lord Hopetoun. He is Muster-Master General of Scotland. Has a family.

26. ARCHIBALD COCKBURN, Esq., Sheriff of the County.

He and Mr. Dundas married two sisters. Has been made Judge Admiral through Mr. Dundas. Has sold his estate to the Earl of Dalhousie, but supposed to have retained the vote during his life. A very active magistrate.

27. THOMAS BROWN of Nether Ploughlands.

A middling estate. A family. Connected with John Gray, W.S. Will go with Mr. Dundas.

28. EDWARD MARJORIBANKS of Hallyards, of Lees in Berwickshire.

An independant man and respected, but at times unfit for business. A son in the Guards.

29. HENRY DUNDAS, Treasurer of the Navy, and Member for the County.

30. JOHN DAVIDSON of Haltree, W.S.

Has been obliged to Mr. Dundas, to whom he is Deputy-Keeper to the Signet. The Crown Agent. Very rich. An only son in the Army. Pushing for a Clerkship of Session through the Dukes of Montagu and Buccleugh.

31. ROBERT PRINGLE of Symington.

32. JAMES, COUNT LOCKHART of Lee.

An independant man. A great estate in Lanarkshire. A considerable estate in this County, on which votes might be made. His brother lately appointed to an office in the Customs at Bo'ness through the Duke of Hamilton and Mr. Dundas.

33. WILLIAM CHARLES LITTLE of Libberton.
Before mentioned. Heir of Sir Alexander Gilmour, but on bad terms with him.
34. WILLIAM MILLER of Craigentiny.
The Quaker. Rich and independant.
35. ROBERT HEPBURN of Clerkington.
The Commissioner of Customs, before mentioned.
36. JOHN WAUCHOPE of Edmonstone, before mentioned.
37. SIR ANDREW LAUDER DICK of Grange, Baronet.
A very good estate. Married Miss Brown of Johnstonburn. Much under the influence of George Cumin, W.S., his cousin.

MR. CUNINGHAME, Sir William Augustus Cuning-hame's eldest son.

MR. CUNINGHAME of Boniton.

A batchelor. Influenced by Lord Lauderdale.

MR. HOUSTON of Calderhall.

A good estate. A batchelor. Attached to Lord Maitland and Sir William Cuninghame.

FIFESHIRE.

THIS is a very extensive County. There are few estates in it of such magnitude as to give much influence by creating liferent votes. There are a great many Freeholders of small estates, and as they are much connected with the Army, Navy, Excise, or Customs, the influence of the Minister must have great weight.

1. The Honble. Henry Erskine, Dean of the Faculty of Advocates, for whose use this compilation is intended, and of whom therefore it would be improper to say anything, has, the compiler believes, more personal interest in this County than any other individual.

2. Sir James Erskine St. Clair, who succeeded lately to Colonel St. Clair's estate, and is the nephew of Lord Loughborough, and Director of the Chancery in Scotland, has also a very considerable interest.

3. Colonel Wemyss, the present Member, has also many family connections and great interest.

4. Sir John Henderson has also a considerable interest, and has made several votes on his estate. He is the nephew of Mr. Andrew Stuart.

5. Sir John Anstruther, the father of Mr. Counsellor Anstruther, has also a good estate, and has made several votes in this County, as has

6. Sir Robert Anstruther.

7. Mr. Durham of Largo is also a very independant man, much connected with the Dean of Faculty, and with a good interest.

8. Mr. Morison of Naughton, and his son, Major Morison, have also a good estate and interest, which supports the Dean of Faculty.

9. Mr. Bethune of Kilconquhar has also a good estate and interest, which supports the Dean of Faculty.

10. Mr. Peter Rigg has a very independant estate, and much personal interest, but he is at present against the Dean of Faculty.

The other interests will appear from the Roll made up at Michaelmas, 1788; but in this County, as every individual is personally known to the Dean of Faculty, the compiler has been the less anxious about the information he has procured.

Votes of Mr. Durham of Largo.

1. JAMES DURHAM of Largo.

Disqualified as Inspector of Window Lights. An independant man. Cousin of the Dean of Faculty. A large estate. One son married an English lady, but has no children the second in a good way in India; the third in the Navy.

FORFARSHIRE.

THE leading interests in this County are:—

1. Mr. Maule of Panmure, a minor, son to the late Earl of Dalhousie, and brother to the present Earl, also a minor. He succeeded to the Earl of Panmure's estate in this County, which is very great; but many of the votes created by the late Earl now look on themselves as independant. Ilay Campbell, Lord President, is one of Mr. Maule's acting Tutors.

2. The Earl of Strathmore, whose father, the late Earl, and the late Earl of Panmure were on opposite sides in this County. The Earl of Strathmore has many connections, a natural interest, and a great estate in this County. At the death of his mother he will be in very opulent circumstances.

3. Sir David Carnegie of Southesk has a good estate and great interest in this County. He married a sister of Lady Cathcart's, and is Member for the Burghs.

4. Mr. Douglas of Douglas, the present Member, the brother-in-law of the Duke of Buccleugh and Lord Graham, has also a great estate and interest in this County.

5. The Earl of Airlie has also a considerable estate and interest, but meddles little in politicks.

The Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

To come on the Roll:—

Votes of Sir Hew Dalrymple.

JAMES DALRYMPLE.

JOHN ANDERSON.

Individuals.

MR. BUCHAN HEPBURN's son, before mentioned.

JAMES ANDERSON of Clerkington.

Brother of David Anderson of St. Germain's. Also made his money in India, and will be influenced by his brother or by Mr. Hastings.

EDWARD HAY of Newhall.

Brother of the Marquis of Tweeddale's. Once in the Guards. Will support his brother's interest, though he himself is much connected with the Duke of Buccleugh, etc.

INVERNESS-SHIRE.

THE leading interests in this County are :—

1. The Duke of Gordon.

2. Lord Macdonald, who has a very fine estate, and an interest among those of his own name. He is quite independant. Has a daughter married to Sir John Sinclair of Ulbster, the Opposition Candidate for Caithness. His brother is the Attorney-General of England.

3. Sir James Grant. Has an independant fortune, and much interest with those of his own name. He is able. He is next heir to the Earl of Findlater. Has lately made an agreement with the Earl of Fife and Mr. Dundas about his politicks; his son, a Lawyer, is to be brought by them into Parliament for Morayshire. This family is of great respectability in the North; it will, it is thought, incline to support Government.

4. Mr. M'Leod of M'Leod. Has a great estate, and interest with his own name. Much directed by Mr. Bannatine Macleod, the Lawyer, the Sheriff of Bute, the friend of Lord Mountstuart. Is married.

Has made money in India. He has only lately appeared as the Candidate for the County, and, it is supposed, will be supported by Mr. Dundas, and opposed by the Frasers and Gordons if they can agree on a Candidate.

5. The Duke of Argyll.

6. Mr. Fraser of Lovat, the brother of the late General Simon Fraser. Once represented this County. Has a good estate. Connected with the Duke of Argyll and the Earl of Bute. Fraser of Gortuleg, Fraser of Strichen, and Fraser of Belladrum, who are the late Fraser of Lovat's Trustees and Executors, have more to say with their name than the present Lovat; they too are connected with the Duke of Argyll and Lord Bute.

76. LIEUTENANT ARCHIBALD FRASER of the 78th.

77. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL SIMON FRASER.

78. LIEUTENANT SIMON FRASER of Dallulich.

Refused to take the trust oath.

79. WILLIAM FRASER of Pack.

It will be observed that these votes were created by the late General Fraser, in favour chiefly of gentlemen of his own clan and name, who do not think themselves bound to go in all cases with the present Fraser of Lovat.

Votes of Campbell of Calder.

80. JOHN CAMPBELL of Calder.

Independant estate in this County and in Wales. Believed to be attached to Lord North and Opposition. Mr. Baron Gordon has a good deal to say in the direction of his Scotch affairs. The Baron was made a Judge by Lord North.

KINROSS-SHIRE.

1. THE controuling interest in this County is that of George Graham of Kinross. The County is a small one, and the greatest part of it belongs to Mr. Graham in property or superiority. Mr. Graham once already represented the County. He has a good fortune, but not a very large one. It is presumed that he means to get himself returned at next election, and his political views and objects, it is presumed, will be well known to Mr. William Adam, whose father,

2. John Adam of Blair, has the next interest in this County. Were the late decisions of the Court of Session cutting down liferent votes affirmed, and carried into full effect, Mr. Adam, who, it is thought, would be joined by Mr. Mercer, would again carry the County.

Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Individuals.

1. ROBERT RANKEN of Colden.

Dead since Michaelmas. Has left a family.
Not rich. A brother a wright in Edinburgh. The estate may be purchased.

2. WILLIAM MERCER of Aldie.

A very fine estate, in right of himself and his wife. Three daughters. The eldest, his heiress, married to Captain Keith Elphinstone, the brother-in-law of Mr. William Adam.

3. SIR MICHAEL MALCOLM of Lochore.

Has sold his estate, reserving the vote. Not very rich, but independant. It is thought he will be influenced by his relation Lord Bathurst.

4. THOMAS BRUCE of Arnot.

In right of his wife, the heiress. A family. A brother, Commissioner for the Earl of Hopetoun, and the brother's son, a Lawyer, will have influence. Another brother, a Professor at Glasgow, who will not have so much to say, is married to Miss Sutherland, sister to Sutherland, the English Counsellor.

Votes of Mr. Adam.

5. JOHN ADAM of Blair. Aforesaid.

6. WILLIAM ADAM. Aforesaid.

7. GEORGE ARNOT, Arlary.

Part his property, part a superiority from Mr. Adam, with whom he will go.

Votes of Mr. Graham.

8. GEORGE GRAHAM of Kinross. Aforesaid.

9. DUNCAN MACMILLAN of Dunmore.

Lord Mountstuart used to have influence. Doubt if he will swear.

10. ROBERT GRAHAM, Banker in London.

Votes of Mr. Graham (continued).

11. DR. JOHN RUTLEDGE from India.
12. JAMES PIERCY, Merchant in London.
13. JAMES SOMERVILLE, Merchant in Glasgow.
Refused to take the oath, and threw up his vote in Renfrewshire.
14. JOHN BROWN, Merchant in Glasgow.
Will demur about swearing.
15. JOHN GRÆME, W.S.
Will also demur.
16. JAMES ALEXANDER, Merchant, Stirling.
17. JAMES CHEAP of Sauchie.
It is thought will doubt about swearing.
18. CAPTAIN MAYNE of Powislogie.
19. JOHN BURN, Writer, Stirling.
Will scarcely swear.
20. JOHN MURRAY of Murrayshall.
21. JOHN ANSTRUTHER of Ardit, Advocate.
Will doubt in the present state of the law about swearing.
22. JAMES STEDMAN of Whinfield.
23. GEORGE BROWN, Merchant in Leith.

All these votes were conferred, it is believed, before the late decisions. If the voters are told that a prosecution for perjury will certainly follow the oath, most of them will demur exceedingly. Mr. Adam ought to keep this in view if he has any doubt about the line in politicks which Mr. Graham will follow.

Votes of Mr. Clephane.

24. GEORGE CLEPHANE of Carslogie.

In right of his wife. Has two sons in the Army; a third unprovided for. Has a very independant estate in Fife.

25. LIEUTENANT WILLIAM DOUGLAS CLEPHANE, Guards.

26. CAPTAIN DAVID CLEPHANE, Foot.

These are the two sons of George Clephane, and have liferent votes from him.

KIRKCUDBRIGHTSHIRE.

THE leading interests in this County are—

1. The Earl of Selkirk, a very independant man, attached to no party, but who has hitherto acted with Opposition from conviction. A large family. He has never interested himself in politicks, or affected to be at the head of any interest in the County. His eldest son, Lord Daer, a man of ability and indefatigable industry.

2. The Earl of Galloway, a Ministerial Peer. A family. A large estate.

3. Mr. Murray of Broughton. A great estate. Married a sister of Lord Galloway's, but separated from her. No children. Leaning to Opposition, though of late he has meddled little in politicks.

4. Mr. Richard Oswald, the grand-nephew, and heir, of old Richard Oswald the Peacemaker. A great fortune. His father a Merchant in Glasgow. Many brothers and sisters. It is thought the family will lean to Opposition. A minor, abroad.

5. Mr. Constable, who enjoys the Earl of Nithsdale's estate by a marriage with Lady Winnifred Maxwell, the heiress of that estate. He is a Roman Catholic, and is connected with Mr. Maxwell of Terraughty. Besides his Scots estate, he has a very independant estate in England.

go with Colonel Stewart.
137. MICHAEL HERRIES, as liferenter ; and his son,
WILLIAM HERRIES, as fiar.
Mr. Oswald of Auchincruive, or Mr. Maxwell of Terraughty and Mr. Constable may have interest.

138. THOMAS GORDON of Balmaghie.

Independant. Brother to the Keeper of the Minute-book, and Deputy Receiver-General. Will go with the Galloway interest.

139. WILLIAM HANNAY of Bargally.

A brother of Sir Samuel. Will go with him.

140. JOHN BUSHBY, Sheriff-Clerk of Dumfries.

As liferenter, and his son, JOHN HAY BUSHBY, fiar. Bushby, the elder, is a very active man. He is the factor on all the estates of the Earl of Galloway, and Mr. Murray of Broughton, and Mr. Graham of Netherby, and has much to say with them. He would be a serviceable political agent in this part of Scotland, and wishes to connect himself with Dundas in that way, but if the present Opposition come into power it is hoped he will be willing to join them. His great object will be business and preferment to his son, who has a separate estate in Dumfriesshire, and is a Lawyer.

141. JOHN CLARK, junior, Writer in Dumfries.

A family. Will probably be influenced by Mr. Heron. Leads Alexander Kennedy aforesaid.

142. JOHN MAXWELL of Terraughty.

144. JOHN DIXON of Fairgirth.

145. JOHN NEWALL of Barskeoch.

Will probably go with Mr. Gordon of Kenmure.

146. WILLIAM BUSHBY of Kempleton.

Independant. But will probably be directed by John Bushby and the Galloway interest.

147. JAMES DOUGLAS of Orchardtoun.

A Merchant once in Glasgow. Connected with the Stirlings. Has made an independant fortune.

148. JOHN HANNAY of Ruscoe.

Brother of Sir Samuel. Will go with him.

149. JOHNSTON HANNAY of Torrs.

Also a brother of Sir Samuel, with whom he will go.

150. JAMES STOTHART of Cargen.

He will direct his brother, Thomas Stothart, aforesaid. James married to a sister of John Cockburn, W.S.

LANARKSHIRE.

1. The Duke of Hamilton is the controuling interest in this County.

2. Mr. Douglas of Douglas has also a natural interest in this County, but his operations in making votes are much checked by the Duke of Hamilton, who is one of his heirs of entail. At present Mr. Douglas and the Duke are on one side. Mr. Douglas's estate is large, and he has some personal interest.

3. Count Lockhart of Lee has a great estate, and can make many votes. He is obliged to Mr. Dundas, from whom his brother, Mr. Lockhart Macdonald, lately got an office in the Customs at Bo'ness. Count Lockhart has been thrice married. At present is married to Miss Crawford, cousin of the Countess of Dumfries.

4. The Earl of Hyndford has also a good estate, and some interest in the upper part of the County. He has had little time to form connections in politics. His chief objects are to obtain preferment for Mr. Hepburn of the Excise, his near relation, and for Captain Carmichael, his brother, in the Army.

5. Lord Elphinstone has also an estate and interest in this County. See Dumbartonshire.

6. Mr. Lockhart of Castlehill has an independent estate, and good interest in the County. He is not tied to the Duke of Hamilton, but has been obliged to Mr. Dundas, his relation, who got his brother, Mr. Robert Sinclair, made a Clerk of Session. He has a family of his own. His nephew, Sir Robert Sinclair, is married to a daughter of the Duke of Gordon.

7. Mr. Fullerton of Carstairs has also a good estate, and some interest. He has a family of sons. His daughter married the Honble. William Elphinstone, the India Director. He is inclined to oppose the Duke, and assist Opposition, in politicks.

8. Mr. Dunlop of Garnkirk, a Merchant in Glasgow, has also a good estate, and can make eight or nine votes. He is a great coal proprietor, and a very pushing man. Connected with the Duke of Hamilton at present. He has a good deal of interest about Glasgow from his connection with the Houstouns and Scott of Aikenhead, who has two votes though not enrolled.

The Roll at Michaelmas 1788:—

Votes of the Duke of Hamilton.

1. WILLIAM LAWSON of Cairnmuir.
Will not swear.

Votes of the Duke of Hamilton (continued).

2. MAJOR-GENERAL JAMES HAMILTON.
3. JOHN FORBES AIKMAN of Broomleton.
Will probably not swear.
4. JOHN ROSS M'KIE of Palgown.
An old gentleman of eighty. Has an office in the Stamps of England. A connection of Mr. Heron of Heron's. Will scarcely come to an election.
5. SIR JOHN DALRYMPLE of Cranston.
Baron of Exchequer. Connected with Opposition. Will probably not choose to swear.
6. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL JOHN GUNNING.
A relation of the Dutchess of Argyll's.
7. ROBERT CULLEN, Advocate.
Connected with the Dean of Faculty, and Opposition. Will probably not swear.
8. PROFESSOR JOHN MILLAR, Glasgow.
Much connected with Opposition. I believe he has renounced.
9. JOHN BOYES in Hamilton.
The Duke's factor.
10. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ADAM LIVINGSTONE.
11. JOHN HAMILTON of Westburn.
Partly on his own estate. May, however, hesitate about the oath.
12. DR. JOHN MOORE, London.
The author. The Duke's travelling tutor.
13. ALEXANDER DUNLOP, Surgeon, Glasgow.
Will not like to swear.
14. SIR JOHN HENDERSON of Fordel.
The nephew of Mr. Andrew Stuart.

20. JOHN HOME of Kilduff.
The author of "Douglas."
21. CAPTAIN CAMPBELL EDMONSTONE.
Brother of Sir Archibald Edmonstone.
22. JOHN MORTHLAND, Advocate.
Connected with Opposition. But will swear, and go with the Duke. A Lawyer of real abilities.
23. DR. JAMES LYND, London.
24. DR. JOHN ROEBUCK, Kinneil.
25. JAMES EDMONSTONE of Newtown.
Travelling tutor to Lord Mountstuart. Old.
Will scarcely attend.
26. PROFESSOR GEORGE JARDINE of Glasgow.
Will not swear.
27. PETER BLACKBURN, Glasgow.
Disqualified. Has an excellent office in the Stamps, Glasgow.
28. ALEXANDER FISHER, Glasgow.

Votes of Campbell of Shawfield (continued).

good habits with the Duke of Argyll and Duke of Hamilton, but perhaps would support an independant interest in the County against the Duke of Hamilton.

74. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ALEXANDER STEWART.
The Member for Kirkcudbright.

Votes of Hamilton of Wishaw.

75. WILLIAM HAMILTON of Wishaw.

Good estate. Opposition principles. An Independant Friend. A brother in the Army married a sister of Mr. M'Donald, the son-in-law of the Lord Justice-Clerk.

76. MAJOR ALEXANDER BAILLIE.
Uncle of the last. Not on good terms with him.

Individuals.

77. WILLIAM HOPE VERE.

Eldest son of Charles Hope Vere, Governor of Blackness Castle. Near relation of Lord Hopetoun's.

78. HONBLE. GEORGE BAILLIE of Jerviswood.

An independant respectable man. A family. Brother of Lord Hadinton's.

79. SIR WILLIAM MAXWELL of Calderwood.

Dead, but succeeded by his son. A batchelor. An independant estate. Has expectations from the Coulters of Glasgow, and is inclined to oppose the Duke.

80. ALLAN LOCKHART of Cleghorn.

A good estate. Infirm man. An only daughter. Would support an independant interest against the Duke.

81. ROBERT BOGLE of Shettleston.
Not rich. A Merchant in Glasgow. William Clark, his son-in-law, Collector of the Customs, Glasgow.
82. SIR MICHAEL STEWART.
Father of Mr. Shaw-Stewart, Member for Renfrewshire. Would support an independent interest.

90. WILLIAM FULLERTON of Carstairs.
See Introduction to County.
91. ANDREW STUART of Craigthorn.
Once represented this County. Will scarcely oppose the Duke in it.
92. JOHN CORBET of Tolcross.
A small estate. A son once a Major in the Army; sold out. Another son a Merchant in Glasgow, connected with the Houstouns and M'Dowalls there, and so with the Duke. Corbet himself is under some obligations to Lord Elphinstone.
93. JOHN SHAW-STEWART.
The Member for Renfrewshire.
94. ROBERT DREGHORN of Ruchill.
Very independant. Of no party. May be influenced by his relation Sir John Maxwell, or Mr. Shaw-Stewart, or perhaps by Mr. Douglas.
95. ROBERT MACQUEEN of Braxfield, Lord Justice-Clerk.
A good estate. His son-in-law, at the bar, is Sheriff of this County. The family owe their preferments to Mr. Dundas, but they are not more than adequate to their merits.
96. ROBERT CRAUFURD of Possil.
A pretty good estate. A family. Foolishly violent at present for Mr. Pitt; but John Craufurd of Auchenames may have influence.

97. ANDREW BUCHANAN of Mount Vernon.
A batchelor. A pretty good estate. Will go with his brother-in-law, Mr. Dunlop of Garnkirk, and so with the Duke. Quite independant.

A small estate. Son on half-pay. Coal tack from the Duke. Will go with him.
106. JAMES MACLEHOSE of Easter Killochside.
A rich man. A family. Is likely to be influenced by the Dunlops or Houstouns, or other connections of the Duke's in Glasgow ; but quite independant.
107. JOHN CAMPBELL of Blythswood.
A Lieutenant-Colonel in the Army. Connected with the Prince of Wales, and Dukes of York and Clarence. A batchelor; of an independant estate. A popular officer, and well respected.
108. JAMES DUNLOP of Garnkirk.
See Introduction to County.
109. JOHN DICKSON of Coulter, Advocate.
Small fortune. A family. Attached to the Dean of Faculty. Under some obligations to Hog of Newliston. Brother-in-law of Lord Lauderdale.
110. WILLIAM MURE of Caldwell.
Disqualified by an office in the Stamps, Glasgow. Pretty good estate. Duke of Hamilton and Lord Mountstuart. A sensible moderate man.
111. SIR JOHN STUART of Castlemilk.
Moderate estate. No family. The Duke, or Mr. Andrew Stuart.
112. SIR JAMES STEUART DENHAM.
The present Member. A near relation and intimate of the Dean of Faculty, but supported by the Duke, and steady with this Administration. An officer in the Army.

A good estate. Were he to take an opposite side in politicks to the Duke, and to stand in opposition to his interest in the County, he would have a very respectable support.

113. JAMES MAXWELL of Williamwood.

Estate for sale. The Duke, on account of his uncle, John Baird. A plain honest man.

114. WILLIAM MEEK of Fortisset.

Brother to Mr. Meek the Minister. Has no intimacy with the Duke, but will probably go with him. A small estate. A son a Writer in Edinburgh. Lord Hyndford might have influence.

115. ANDREW STIRLING of Drumpellier.

A very extensive manufacturer. Under great obligations to Mr. Ramsay the Banker in Edinburgh. Married. Will, it is thought, go in opposition to the Duke.

116. FRANCIS CRAWFORD of Milton.

Independant. Will go with his brother, Sir John Stuart, who will go with the Duke. A valetudinarian. No family.

117. HENRY STEUART of Allanton.

A moderate estate. Cousin to Sir James, the Member, with whom he will go.

118. JAMES HAMILTON of Dalzell.

Very good estate. No family. His brother his heir. None of the brothers have children. None of them much attached to the Duke, but will not like to oppose him.

119. ROBERT HAMILTON of Orbiston.
Good estate. Brother of the last. No family.
They will go together.
120. JOHN BROWN of Coultermains.
Small estate. A Writer in Edinburgh. Mr.
Fullerton of Carstairs and Hugh Mossman may have influence.
121. MR. HAMILTON of Easterhouse.
Small estate. A family. Mr. Dunlop of Garnkirk has much to say with him. The Duke.
122. ROBERT BOGLE of Daldowie.
Moderate estate. Suffered by mercantile losses. May be influenced by Mr. Lockhart of Castlehill, or Mr. Dundas.
123. SIR WILLIAM MURRAY of Touchadam.
A religious man. A pretty good estate.
124. DAVID RAE (LORD ESKGROVE in the Court of Session) liferenter ; and DAVID RAE, his son, fiar. Will probably go with Mr. Douglas.

ORKNEY.

SIR THOMAS DUNDAS, whose respectable and independant character is above eulogium, has by far the most considerable estate and interest in this County, and should naturally return the Member. A spirit of jealousy among the smaller proprietors has produced an opposition to him. Among these the most considerable is Mr. Honeyman of Græmesay, who has now divested himself of his estate (reserving his vote) in favor of William Honeyman the Lawyer, his eldest son, who was made Sheriff of Lanarkshire through the interest of Mr. Dundas, and is son-in-law to the Lord Justice-Clerk, preferred to that office by the same interest.

It is believed that there is a great part of this County not divided into freeholds or votes, the greatest part of which must belong to Sir Thomas, but it is said to be difficult to make more votes owing to the confusion of the tax or valuation rolls.

The following is the Roll of Freeholders at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of Sir Thomas Dundas.

1. SIR THOMAS DUNDAS.

Proprietor of great part of the County.
Should naturally return the Member, and has hitherto done so.

2. THOMAS DUNDAS of Fingask.

Liferent vote of Sir Thomas. Now dead.

3. GEORGE HALDANE of Gleneagles.

Liferent vote of Sir Thomas.

4. COLONEL THOMAS DUNDAS.

The same.

5. CHARLES DUNDAS.

Liferent vote of Sir Thomas. Present Member.

6. CHARLES INNES, W.S.

Liferent vote of Sir Thomas.

7. JAMES RIDDOCH.

The same, but disqualified, being Collector of Customs, Kirkwall.

8. CAPTAIN JOHN TRAILL, Marines.

Liferent of Sir Thomas.

9. THOMAS TRAILL, Merchant, Kirkwall.

The same.

10. PATRICK HAGGART, Sir Thomas's factor.

The same.

Votes of Mr. Honeyman.

11. PATRICK HONEYMAN of Græmesay.

The father of William Honeyman, the Sheriff of Lanark, preferred by Mr. Dundas.
This the best estate in Orkney next to Sir Thomas's. The family will probably go with Mr. Dundas against Sir Thomas. The estate has been lately conveyed by Patrick Honeyman to his son, the Sheriff, reserving the father's vote.

12. SAMUEL MITCHELSON, W.S.

Liferenter of Mr. Honeyman's. Got a Clerkship of Session by the interest of Mr. Dundas.

13. HARRY NISBET of Weir.

Another liferenter of Mr. Honeyman's. WILLIAM HONEYMAN, the Sheriff, is inrolled to vote in Nisbet's absence. William Honeyman, besides his connection already mentioned with Mr. Dundas, has many connections with the York Buildings Company, for whose creditors he is factor.

14. HUGH SCOBIE.

Another liferenter of Mr. Honeyman's.

Votes of Mr. Traill.

15. JOHN TRAILL of Westness.

A free estate. No children. Married a near connection of Balfour of Trenaby. Does not qualify. His heirs are his cousins: the one a full-pay, the other a half-pay Lieutenant. At last election they were against Sir Thomas; but it is not known that they are in connection as yet with Honeyman's party.

16. LIEUTENANT JOHN TRAILL, 76th Foot.

Liferent of Westness's, his cousin.

17. JOHN CAMPBELL, liferenter; and Lieutenant WILLIAM TRAILL of the Marines, cousin of Westness, to vote in Campbell's absence.

18. JAMES KENNEDY, liferenter; and Lieutenant GEORGE CRAIGIE to vote in his absence.

Votes of Mr. Baikie.

19. ROBERT BAIKIE of Tankerness.

Once the candidate. Good estate in this County. Married a niece of Balfour of Trenaby. Last against Sir Thomas; but it is not known that he has yet promised to Honeyman.

20. JOHN URQUHART, Kirkwall.

Liferenter of Mr. Baikie.

21. SIR JOHN SINCLAIR of Ulbster, liferenter; and, in his absence, MAJOR CHARLES ROSS, younger of Balnagown.

22. ROBERT DUNDAS, Solicitor-General.

Votes of the Balfours.

23. WILLIAM BALFOUR of Trenaby.

Liferenter, now dead, as is Thomas Balfour his brother, who had right to vote as a fiar. Went against Sir Thomas. The first has a younger son a Writer to the Signet. Mr. Baikie is married to a daughter of the second. The right to the vote is in the eldest son of the first, now at Madras in the India Company's Service.

24. MR. DAVID BALFOUR, W.S.

Son of Balfour of Trenaby. A vote on his father's estate. His brother John, now at Madras, has right to the fee of the vote.

Votes of Mr. Laing.

25. ROBERT LAING of Strenzie.

Son a Lawyer. A rich man. Has expectations from Gilbert Meason, Sir Thomas Dundas's friend.

26. MR. MALCOLM LAING, Advocate.

Son of the last. A vote from his father. A young man of abilities.

Individuals.

27. WILLIAM HONEYMAN CRAIGIE of Garsay.

A weak man. A cousin of William Honeyman the Sheriff's, to whom he sold his estate, reserving, it is believed, the vote. Went last against Sir Thomas.

28. JAMES STEWART of Burgh.

Very rich. Married a connection of Traill of Holland and Traill of Westove. His brother and presumptive heir, Balfour Stewart, lives with him; he married an Englishwoman. Went against Sir Thomas.

29. PATRICK GRÆME, Græmeshall.

Dead; late Sheriff. His brother and heir is Captain Græme of the Navy. Half-pay. Unmarried. Lost an arm on board the Preston. A client of John and Francis Anderson, who are very friendly to Sir Thomas, though their political principles are with Mr. Pitt.

30. CAPTAIN ALEXANDER GRÆME.

Mentioned above. Heir of the last. Went with Sir Thomas.

31. MR. JAMES TRAILL, Advocate, Sheriff of Caithness.

A good estate. Married a sister of the Earl of Caithness. A young family. Went last against Sir Thomas.

32. JAMES TRAILL, Merchant in Kirkwall.

In his absence GILBERT MEASON, Edinburgh (to whom the vote really belongs), to vote. Mr. Meason is a great friend of Sir Thomas; rich, old, and a batchelor.

33. JAMES MOODIE of Melsetter.

Went last with Sir Thomas. Estate rather embarrassed. Young. Lately married to a daughter of Captain Dunbar of Westfield, in Caithness.

34. DR. THOMAS BALFOUR.

A son of Trenaby's. Brother of Mr. David Balfour, W.S.

35. THOMAS TRAILL of Holland.

Independant estate. Went last against Sir Thomas. A family. Married a sister of Stewart of Burgh.

36. LIEUTENANT MURDOCH M'KENZIE of the Navy.

Went abroad, young, in the service of Government as a maritime surveyor. At present in London unemployed.

37. WILLIAM RICHAN of Rapness.

A good estate. A family. Got a Lieutenancy through Mr. Dundas, the Treasurer of the Navy. Married an Englishwoman.

PEEBLESSHIRE.

1. THE controuling interest in this County is that of the Duke of Queensberry, whose next heir, in case of his failure without issue, is the Duke of Buccleugh.

2. The Right Honble. James Montgomery, Lord Chief Baron of Exchequer, has also an estate and good personal interest in this County. He is connected with the Duke of Queensberry, and the Marquis of Townshend, the Marquis having married his niece. The Chief Baron's eldest son is in the Army, and it has been settled betwixt the Duke of Queensberry and the Chief Baron that he is to represent the County; but whether he will incline to take the same line in politicks with the Duke and the Marquis of Townshend is unknown. The Chief Baron has a numerous family, and moderate fortune. His second son is at the Bar. The whole family popular.

3. The Earl of Traquair has a good estate in this County, but is a Roman Catholic. His estate rather incumbered, and he lives at Madrid.

4. The Countess Dowager of Hyndford, who is aunt to Mr. Dundas of Arniston, now Lord Advocate of Scotland, has also an estate and interest here. Her nephew, Sir James Suttie of Balgone, who is the cousin-german of Mr. Dundas of Arniston, is her heir.

PERTHSHIRE.

THIS is a very extensive County, in which there are a great many independant Freeholders of middling estates, and several very large estates belonging to Peers or great Commoners on which many votes may be made.

The two great interests which divide the County are:—

1. The Duke of Athole's, who has a very great estate and extensive interest, and whose uncle is the present Member.

2. The Earl of Breadalbane's, whose estate and interest are also very considerable.

Besides these, the Marquis of Graham has also very extensive superiorities in this County, which enable him to create many votes, and he has also good personal interest.

James Drummond of Perth has also a very large estate, and considerable interest. He got his estate from the present Administration, in consequence of the Act disannexing the forfeited estates in Scotland from the Crown. He is moderate in party, but from gratitude attached to Mr. Pitt and Dundas.

He married a sister of Lord Elphinstone's, by whom he has an only daughter. Captain Keith Elphinstone and Mr. William Adam are his brothers-in-law.

The other considerable interests in the County will appear from the Roll.

The present candidates for the County are General Murray, the uncle of the Duke of Athole, who is supported by the Duke and Administration; and in opposition to him, Mr. Drummond of Megginch, who is supported by many independant men in this County, not from an opposition to Mr. Pitt's Administration, but in order to break the influence of the family of Athole, of which they are extremely jealous. Mr. Drummond is also supported by the Earl of Breadalbane, and by the friends of the Opposition, and it is to be hoped that the support he receives from them will attach him to the same measures with them in Parliament in case he is returned.

The Earls of Kinnoul and Strathmore, Lord Kinnaird, and Lord Gray have also considerable estates and interests in this County.

Roll at Michaelmas 1788:—

Votes of the Duke of Athole.

1. MAJOR-GENERAL JAMES MURRAY of Strowan.

The present Member. Has a regiment. Uncle to the Duke of Athole. The Ministerial candidate. A liferent vote from the Duke.

2. GEORGE MURRAY.

Younger brother of the late Duke of Athole.
A Captain in the Navy. Candidate for the Burghs.

3. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL JAMES MURRAY.

Son of Murray of Cringletie. On half-pay.
Lives at Cringletie. Uncle of Wolfe Murray, the Lawyer. His family on good terms with this President, and also connected with the Dean of Faculty and Lord Henderland.

4. LIEUTENANT ADAM STEWART of Cluny.

5. JOHN RICHARDSON of Springfield.

Captain of an Indiaman. Used to live at Freeland, near Perth.

6. GILBERT STEWART of Fincastle.

7. JOHN STEWART of Stenton.

A cousin of Mrs. Murray of Henderland.
Wants a commission for a younger son.

8. ROBERT STEWART of Garth.

Doubt if he will swear. A son in General
Murray's regiment.

9. MUNGO MURRAY of Kincairney.

Disqualified. Collector of the Customs at Perth.

10. WILLIAM SMALL of Kindrogan.

A Writer in Perth.

11. JOHN ROBERTSON of Stralloch.

Does not appear to be very much attached to the Duke, and will not swear.

12. EDMUND FERGUSSON of Balledmund.

Factor for Muir Mackenzie aftermentioned.
May be influenced by him, but probably will not swear.

13. LIEUTENANT THOMAS HOG of Wester Kinloch.

A recluse man. Will scarcely swear.

Votes of Mr. Graham of Balgowan.

14. THOMAS GRAHAM of Balgowan.

Married a sister of the Dutchess of Athole, and of Lord Cathcart and Lady Stormont. Very good estate. No family. Sold lands lately, which clear him of debt. A certainty of succeeding to a fortune in money at the death of the present Marquis of Annandale. In an opposite political interest to the Duke, but will not take an active part against him. Popular in the County. Would be a proper candidate for Opposition.

15. SIR WILLIAM CUNINGHAME.

16. JAMES TOWNSHEND OSWALD.

17. ARCHIBALD M'DONALD, Attorney-General.

18. JOHN GRÆME, W.S.

19. JOHN STEWART, Lieutenant-Governor of Blackness.

20. THOMAS WHITSON of Parkhill.

21. ALEXANDER ADAM, Kirkcaldy.

22. JOHN BALVAIRD of Ballowmill.

All these eight have lately renounced their votes.

23. ROBERT ABERDEEN.

Supposed abroad. It is probable that he has also renounced.

24. ALEXANDER ABERDEEN.

A Merchant in London. Likely that he too has renounced.

Votes of the Earl of Strathmore.

25. WILLIAM LYON, younger of Wester Ogil.

26. JOHN LYON of Forgandenny.

The father of David Lyon, merchant in London, by whom he will be influenced.

These two votes are made by the Earl of Strathmore who could make several more votes in this County. His chief interest is in Forfarshire. He is in the Guards. He will have a good estate at the death of his mother. His affairs in this country are managed by Mr. David Erskine, W.S., one of his guardians.

Votes of Mr. Muir Mackenzie.

27. ALEXANDER MUIR MACKENZIE of Delvine.

A great estate. Married a daughter of Sir Robert Murray, an officer in the Dutch service. Has one daughter. His nearest relation is W. Campbell, W.S. Quite independant.

28. GEORGE CUMMIN, W.S.

Got his vote from Muir Mackenzie's uncle. Will probably reckon himself independant. He is doer for the Earl of Moray, and a sensible man.

29. ANDREW MACKENZIE, W.S.

Got the vote from Mr. Muir Mackenzie's uncle, who was also a near relation of his own.

30. JOHN WAUCHOPE, W.S.

In the same situation with George Cummin. He is brother of Mr. Wauchope of Niddrie in Mid-Lothian. He is very generally liked and in great practice.

31. JOHN MENZIES of Culdares.

Besides this vote of Delvine's he has also an independant vote of his own. Married a daughter of Robertson of Tulliebelton, afterwards mentioned, who will probably influence him.

Votes of Mr. Haldane.

32. GEORGE HALDANE of Gleneagles.

Married a cousin of Sir Thomas Dundas's; has one daughter by her. Has married a second time. Is very desirous of getting into Parliament himself. Has a pretty good estate. Will probably go with Sir Thomas Dundas.

33. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ALEXANDER DUNCAN.

34. ADMIRAL ADAM DUNCAN.

Though he is married to a niece of Dundas, will go with Mr. Haldane.

35. CHARLES DUNDAS, Esq.

36. JAMES FOGO, Writer, Edinburgh.

Votes of Sir John Wedderburn.

37. SIR JOHN WEDDERBURN of Ballendean.

Married a sister of Lord Airlie's, by whom he has children, the eldest intended for the Scots Bar. Married again to Miss Dundas of Dundas. Lord Loughborough should have influence. He is an independant man.

38. JAMES WEDDERBURN.

His brother. A rich man. Made his money in the West Indies. Quite independant. Will go with his brother. Married a daughter of Mr. Blackburn of Glasgow.

Votes of Mr. Murray, India.

39. MR. BANNATINE M'LEOD, Advocate; and, in his absence, MR. JOHN MURRAY.

The vote belongs to Mr. Murray, Mr. M'Leod's brother-in-law, who has gone out as Commissary-General to India. Mr. M'Leod is the Sheriff of Bute, and influenced by Lord Mountstuart. A man of good sense and ability. A friend of the Dean's.

40. WILLIAM M'EWAN, Writer in Edinburgh.

Individuals.

41. JAMES STUART M'KENZIE of Rosehaugh, the Lord Privy Seal of Scotland.

A great estate, which goes, after his death, to his nephew, the Earl of Bute's second son.

42. ROBERT RAMSAY of Camno.

Estate and vote sold to Lord Privy Seal Stuart M'Kenzie.

43. DAVID STEWART of Arthurstone.

Estate and vote purchased by David Niccol, who wishes to sell again.

44. WILLIAM NAIRNE, Esq., LORD DUNSINNANE in the Court of Session.

A batchelor. Independant. Once connected with Lord Mansfield and Lord Stormont; but got a Judge's gown from Dundas. Uncle of the next voter.

45. SIR WILLIAM NAIRNE of Dunsinnane.

The estate sold to his uncle, Lord Dunsinnane, the last voter, but the vote reserved. David Scott, the India Director, brother-in-law to Sir William Nairne, will have great influence with him, as will Lord Dunsinnane.

46. MAJOR-GENERAL THOMAS STIRLING of Feddals.

This is a vote conferred by Sir William Stirling, who has a good estate; married a sister of Mr. David Erskine and Mr. Erskine of Cardross; has a family; has not hitherto been in use to take the oaths to Government; Lord Graham may have influence.

47. CHARLES HUNTER of Burnside.

This vote got from Balledgarno, who lately sold to Lord Kinnaird, and the vote believed to be discharged.

48. PETER HUNTER of Knap.

A Colonel or Major in the Army. In easy circumstances. The estate sold to Lord Kinnaird, but the vote reserved during life. Messrs. Hunter, Hop Merchants, London, may have influence.

49. JOHN CAMPBELL of Auchalader.

Was factor for Lord Breadalbane, but a dryness is said to subsist betwixt them. Rich. A family. A son in the Army. Another a Druggist in London. A daughter married to Peter M'Dougal, Writer in Edinburgh.

50. DAVID STEWART MONCREIFFE.

Rich. Old batchelor. Sir William Moncreiffe his heir. Made a Baron by Dundas.

52. ROBERT OLIPHANT of Rossie.

The Postmaster-General. Moderate estate. Son at the bar. Will be influenced by Lord Privy Seal.

53. JAMES FARQUHARSON of Invercauld.

A great estate. Has an only daughter. Will probably go with the Duke of Athole. Would wish to do something for Farquharson of Bruxie; a Lawyer.

54. HENRY CRAWFORD of Monorgan.

A moderate estate. Married the Dowager Mrs. Graham of Gartmore. A merchant in London. Was Collector of Customs at Dundee; supposed still to draw salary; thought disqualified.

55. JOHN RANKEN of Littledean.

Cousin of Lord Gray, who will carry him. A family. Son a merchant in Perth. Not very opulent; himself a merchant in Dundee.

56. LIEUTENANT-GENERAL DAVID GRÆME of Gorthy.

It was he who brought over the Queen from Germany. Incumbered estate, but a good one. An only daughter married an English Peer. He will go with the independant interest in this County.

57. JOHN MURRAY of Fossoway.

A clergyman in Ireland. Cousin to the Duke of Athole.

58. DAVID KINLOCH of Gourdie.

He, and Graham of Fintry, who was made a Commissioner of the Customs by Dundas, married to two sisters. Has had strong connections with the Athole family. Thinks himself not tied to them, and that he has rendered them services. Married a daughter of Mill of Millfield. They will probably go together.

59. DAVID BLAIR of Cronan.

A small estate. A family. Much connected with James Smith, W.S., but went last with Athole. Often in low spirits.

60. GEORGE ABERCROMBY of Tullibody.
A brother of Alexander Abercromby the Lawyer, a friend of Dundas. A son of Abercromby of Brucefield in Clackmannanshire.
61. WILLIAM MERCER of Aldie.
A great estate and some interest. His eldest daughter and heiress is married to Captain Elphinstone, Secretary to the Prince of Wales.
62. SIR JAMES CAMPBELL of Aberuchill.
63. RICHARD DUNDAS of Blair.
A moderate estate. Will go with Captain Keith Elphinstone.
64. JOHN RAMSAY of Ochertyre.
Good estate. No family. Influenced by Sir William Stirling of Ardoch, who is brother-in-law of Mr. David Erskine.
65. JAMES ROBERTSON BARCLAY of Keavil, W.S.
Clerk to the Admission of Notaries. Wants the survivance for his son. Will be influenced by Lord Kinnoul.
66. JAMES STEWART of Argaty.
67. MUNGO MURRAY of Lintrose.
Pretty independant. One son in the Army, another in the Navy. Cousin to Sir William Murray, who is connected with Dundas. Also cousin to Graham of Fintry, who was made a Commissioner of Customs by Dundas.
68. WILLIAM GIB of Lochton.
Comptroller of Customs at Perth; so disqualified. Sold the lands, but reserved the liferent of the superiority. A family.

69. DR. ROBERT GRAHAM of Bawhapple.
Never used to take the oaths to Government.
70. JOHN DRUMMOND of Kelty.
A small estate, but independant. A family.
Will probably go with Drummond of Perth.
71. SIR JOHN STEWART of Grandtully.
An independant man. Brother by the father to Mr. Douglas, who will probably influence him. A good estate. Has a son a Lawyer. At times in low spirits. Not well with Athole.
72. GEORGE DEMPSTER of Galry.
The Member of Parliament.
73. SIR DAVID LINDSAY of Evelick.
A good fortune. Cousin of Lord Stormont.
Brother-in-law to Mr. Murray (Lord Henderland). They will influence him.

RENFREWSHIRE.

The compiler has, by a search in Chancery and in the Rolls of the County, ascertained precisely the number of votes which each Freeholder in this County can make on his estate.

The leading interests are as follows :—

1. Sir Michael Stewart of Blackhall, and John Shaw Stewart of Greenock, his son, the present representative of the County in Parliament, can make twenty-two votes, or almost twenty-three. Sir Michael Stewart's is a very old family, with a natural interest in this County. The estate is a very large one. Sir Michael's only child alive, besides Mr. Shaw Stewart, is Lady Maxwell, the wife of Sir William Maxwell of Springkell in Dumfriesshire, and he has also a grandson, Mr. Nicolson Stewart of Carnock, the heir to all his estates in case of the failure of Mr. Shaw Stewart without issue. Mr. Nicolson has married his cousin, the daughter of Sir William Maxwell. Mr. Shaw Stewart's character is acknowledged by men of all parties to be full of benevolence and good sense. He is a man of very independant principles, and is understood to be sincerely attached to the Duke of Portland.

2. The Earl of Glasgow, who has married a sister of the Earl of Errol, and has a pretty good estate in this County, can make seventeen votes. At last election, his interest supported Mr. M'Dowall. He is understood to think well in general of Mr. Pitt's measures, but was averse to the steps he took about the Regency. The Earl of Glencairn may have influence.

3. Mr. M'Dowall of Garthland, Mr. Shaw Stewart's competitor for this County, is a man universally well liked, and has great industry and good sense. Mr. Pitt's ministry are surely under obligations to him; he maintained a most expensive contest in this County, another in Ayrshire, and a third against Captain Elphinstone in the Glasgow District of Burghs. He has a good estate in this county, another in Wigton, and a very large one in the West Indies. No children of his own; but a number of brothers in the Navy, India, etc., to all of whom he is attached. He can make almost eighteen votes.

4. The Earl of Glencairn has a very good estate and interest in this County. Is attached to the Duke of Portland's friends, and can make above sixteen votes.

5. Mr. Speirs of Elderslie has, it is believed, the largest property estate in the County, and can make fifteen votes. He is steady in Opposition.

6. Sir John Maxwell of Pollok, an officer of Dragoons. Has a very great estate. His mother, since his father's death, has married Mr. Shaw Stewart. He can make thirteen votes. He has a brother in the Army, and is steadily attached to the present Opposition.

7. The Earl of Eglinton can make thirteen votes. At his death, his estate goes partly to his daughter, but chiefly to Colonel Hugh Montgomerie of the Coylsfield family, in Ayrshire, who succeeds to his title.

8. The Duke of Hamilton, though he has no property in the County, can make eleven votes on his rights of superiority over the estates of vassals.

9. Lord Blantyre, who is a minor, could make ten votes.

10. Mrs. Napier of Milliken, whose son and heir is in the Army, and who is related to Mr. M'Dowall of Garthland, can make eight votes.

11. Miss Pollok of Pollok has a very independant estate. Is an old unmarried lady, and can make six votes. Her next heir is Captain Crawford, the eldest son of Sir Hew Crawford of Jordanhill after mentioned. She supported Mr. Shaw Stewart.

12. Mr. Hamilton of Wishaw, has a good estate here and in Lanarkshire, and can make nearly five votes. He has a brother in the Army. At last election supported Mr. M'Dowall, but has lately joined the friends of Opposition.

13. The Earl of Abercorn can make four votes.

JAMES KIBBLE, junior, Writer, Paisley.

ROBERT CORSE of Greenlaw.

This last vote was so bad that no complaint was presented for him.

Mr. Shaw Stewart.

CAPTAIN KEITH ELPHINSTONE.

This vote was so bad that he did not claim.

ROSS-SHIRE.

THE leading interests in this County are :—

1. Mr. Humberston M'Kenzie, who at present represents the County, and who has by far the most considerable estate and interest. He succeeded to the late Earl of Seaforth.

2. Captain M'Kenzie, who succeeded to the late Lord M'Leod, the friend of Dundas, who got back the estate of this family forfeited by the late Earl of Cromarty. He has a very considerable estate and interest.

3. David Ross, Esq., Lord Ankerville in the Court of Session, who inclines to Opposition, is connected with the Lord Privy Seal, Lord Mountstuart, etc. He has a family. Not a very large estate. He has a good deal of personal interest in this County, but it is thought will oppose Mr. Humberston M'Kenzie, from an aversion to his great interest founded on his liferent votes.

ROXBURGHSHIRE.

THE two chief interests in this County are those of the Duke of Buccleugh and the Duke of Roxburghe. They have each of them very great estates, and divide the County into two parties. The Duke of Roxburghe is not married, and his nearest heir is Lord Bellenden, a nobleman with whom the Duke is not on terms, and who has lately offended him by a marriage.

Sir Gilbert Elliot has a good estate, and very great interest in this County. His good sense, integrity, and firmness are universally acknowledged, and he is deservedly popular in the County.

Sir George Douglas of Springwood Park, the present Member for this County, who is married to a sister of the Earl of Glasgow, has also a good estate and interest, and is supported by the Duke of Roxburghe.

John Rutherford of Edgerston has also an independent fortune. He married the daughter and heiress of General Leslie, the Second in Command in Scotland, and a brother of the Earl of Leven's. He is popular in the County, and wishes to represent it. It is likely he will be supported by the Buccleugh interest.

There are other considerable estates in the County, as will appear from the

Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of Mr. Douglas.

1. ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS of Douglas.

SELKIRKSHIRE.

THE great controuling interest in this County is that of the Duke of Buccleugh, who is very deservedly liked and respected.

Among the gentlemen of the County, the following have good interest :—

1. Mr. Pringle of Clifton. Very rich. Old. A batchelor. His nephew and heir, Mark Pringle, is Member for the County, and got an office (Collector of Crown Rents) through this Ministry. Mr. Pringle would in general wish to support Government.

2. Mr. Johnstone of Alva, the brother of Mr. Pulteney. Has an immense fortune. A great estate in this county ; but little personal interest.

3. Mr. Pringle of Torwoodlee, has £3000 a year in this County, Roxburgh, and Berwickshire. Has a young family. Brother-in-law of Andrew Plummer, the Sheriff, who will influence him. Rutherford of Edgerston, in Roxburghshire, has great influence with them both. Their present connection is the Duke of Buccleugh. Mr. Pringle of Torwoodlee can make seven or eight votes in this County. He is a relation of the Dean of Faculty.

4. Mr. Scott of Harden. A very independant man. Disqualified, as Cashier of Excise. Will lean to Lord North. Married one of the co-heiresses of the Earl of Marchmont, who, however, on account of some political dispute, is said to be excluded by the Earl. He has a family. His son once represented Berwickshire.

5, 6. Sir Gilbert Elliot and Mr. Rutherford of Edgerston are both very popular men in this County.

Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of Mr. Scott of Harden.

1. WALTER SCOTT of Harden.

13. WILLIAM JOHNSTONE PULTENEY, brother of the last.
Will scarcely swear.

Votes of Mr. Murray of Philiphaugh.

14. JOHN MURRAY of Philiphaugh.
Great part of this estate sold to Mr. Johnstone. Mr. Murray is in the West Indies. He has a daughter married to Sir James Nasmyth of Posso. His son is graduate as a Physician. Is a relation of Pringle of Clifton, who will sway him.

Votes of Mr. Murray of Philiphaugh (continued).

15. SIR ALEXANDER DON of Newton, in Roxburghshire (which see).

Married a sister of the Earl of Glencairn's.
Supposed to be a vote from the last.

Individuals.

16. HENRY CRAWFORD of Monorgan.

Supposed to be a liferent qualification on the estate of Philiphaugh purchased by John Johnstone; but at any rate it is believed he is disqualified as being concerned in the collection of the Customs at Dundee.

17. JOHN PRINGLE of Clifton.

See Introduction to County.

18. JOHN ELLIOT of Borthwickbrae.

Independant man. Son a lawyer. Will go with the Duke of Buccleugh.

19. JAMES CUNNINGHAME of Hyndhope.

STIRLINGSHIRE.*

SIR THOMAS DUNDAS at present represents this County. He has a great estate and great personal interest in it. Universally respected and esteemed, he is long likely to represent it ; for, notwithstanding the party violence of the times, the Minister, though he has many friends in the County, and among others the Marquis of Graham, has found it difficult to form a party against Sir Thomas, who is beloved by men of all parties in Scotland.

The Marquis of Graham has a great estate and very considerable interest in this County, and, were he inclined, could make many votes on his superiorities.

* 1789 AND 1790.

Since this compilation was finished, Sir Alexander Campbell of Ardkinglas, who has a pretty independant fortune, and is an officer in the Army, has appeared as a candidate on the Ministerial interest, and the success he has met with in his canvass demonstrates how extremely difficult it is, even for the most respectable character, to resist in Scotland the influence of the Administration for the time being.

The compiler has marked in these notes the alterations that took place at the Michaelmas Meeting of Freeholders in 1789, and how the several Freeholders stand affected to Sir Thomas Dundas and Sir Alexander Campbell.

Sir Archibald Edmonstone has also a great estate in this County, and has made several votes which are ready to be inrolled.

William Forbes * of Callendar, the great copper contractor. Has also a very large estate in this County, as has William Ramsay, Esq.,† the Banker. See County of Edinburgh.

The Earl of Dunmore, Governor of the Bahama Isles, has also a good estate and some interest, as has Lord Elphinstone, of whom see particulars in Dumbartonshire.

The other interests will appear from the Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of Sir Thomas Dundas.

1. SIR THOMAS DUNDAS. See Introduction to County.
2. CAPTAIN GEORGE MIDDLETON.
Disqualified. Comptroller of the Customs, Leith.

* Mr. Forbes is not yet inrolled, but may be inrolled at the Election, and, it is said, will vote for Sir Thomas.

† Mr. Ramsay is not yet inrolled, but may be inrolled at the Election. He has lately had a difference with Mr. Dundas, but is averse to interpose in politicks or to oppose Government. It is thought he will not vote against Sir Thomas, and may possibly vote for him.

2. It is said that this vote is discharged, and that he may be derolled.

Votes of Sir Thomas Dundas (continued).

3. FRANCIS MASTERTON.
4. MAJOR JAMES BRUCE.
5. MR. JAMES EDGAR, Comptroller of Customs.

Derolled as before, Michaelmas, 1789, .	20
	56
But there were added to the Roll at Michaelmas, 1789,	6
	62

Viz. :—1. MICHAEL STEWART NICOLSON, Mr. Shaw Stewart's nephew (mentioned at the end of the Roll of 1788), who votes for Sir Thomas.

2. CAPTAIN M'LACHLAN says he will not vote. But will lean to Government (also mentioned at the end of Roll of 1788).

Besides these already inrolled, the following gentlemen are ready for enrolment:—

CAPTAIN JOHN M'LACHLAN of Auchintroig.

At present unengaged. A Lieutenancy of Invalids might suit him.

MICHAEL HOUSTOUN STEWART NICOLSON of Carnock.

The heir presumptive to Mr. Shaw Stewart in Renfrewshire. Will certainly support Sir Thomas.

3. THOMAS LIVINGSTONE of Parkhall (mentioned at the end of the Roll of 1788). Will vote for Sir Thomas.

4. JOHN OGILVY of Gairdoch, Factor for Lord Fincastle, the son of the Earl of Dunmore; but who will, it is said, nevertheless vote for Sir Thomas, though it is not known that he has promised.

5. JAMES RAYMOND JOHNSTONE, the son of Johnstone of Alva. Will vote for Sir Alexander.

6. WALTER BUCHANAN of Balfunning (mentioned at the end of Roll of 1788). For Sir Thomas.

So that the Roll at Michaelmas, 1789, consisted in all of 62 Ready to be inrolled:—

MR. RAMSAY the Banker, who, it is thought, will not oppose Sir Thomas, whom he respects; but, though he has had a difference with Mr Dundas, will not incline to oppose Government, and therefore may not vote at all, . 1

SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL himself, 1

MR. FORBES, mentioned in the introduction to the County, who, it is said, will vote for Sir Thomas, . . . 1

MR. MILLER of Dalnair (mentioned at the end of Roll of 1788), and will vote for Sir Alexander, 1

LORD ALVA, who was struck off at Michaelmas, 1788, but is entitled to come on again on a new purchase, who, it is thought, should, and it is hoped will, go with Sir Thomas, 1

GENERAL BRUCE, and his brother, who, it is said, will vote for Sir Alexander, 2

Carry over, . 69

MR. BUCHANAN of Balfunning.

Undeclared. Pretty independant. A saving man. Not much connected with the County. Sir Thomas got his uncle an office on the Canal.

THOMAS LIVINGSTONE of Parkhall.

Believed to have a vote. A good estate. Will support Sir Thomas.

It will be observed that Lord Fincastle, son of Lord Dunmore, is said to be making votes to the number of eight; Sir Michael Bruce, three or four; and Sir Archibald Edmonstone, eight.

ALEXANDER MILLAR of Dalnair, Advocate.

Has lately purchased a vote. He is a Lawyer,

Brought over, . 69

MR. GLASSFORD (mentioned at the end of the Roll of 1788) has declared that he will not vote at all; and is not ready to vote till the end of August.

It will be observed that the following liferenters, or, as they are called, nominal voters, are entitled to be inrolled:—

On Sir Archibald Edmonstone's estate, for Sir Alexander,	14
On the Duke of Hamilton's, for Sir Alexander,	3
On Sir Alexander's,	1
	— 18
On Peter Speirs's, for Sir Thomas,	1
Total,	88

So that Sir Thomas Dundas's success in a great measure depends on this, that the late decisions of the Courts of Law rejecting liferent votes shall be adhered to, or that the persons to whom liferent votes have been given shall refuse to take the trust oath.

but never practises. Rich. Married a niece of Sir Archibald Edmonstone. Likely to go with him.

HENRY GLASSFORD of Dougalston.

Has also lately got a vote. He has a good fortune, and is moderate in his expenses. Bred a Lawyer, but does not practise. Is a sensible man. His father's second wife, who left children, was cousin-german of Henry Dundas, but he is likely to go with Sir Thomas.

Since finishing these remarks, the compiler finds:—

1. That MR. ERSKINE of Mar, a real Freeholder (mentioned in the Roll of 1788), and derolled in 1789, is entitled to be again inrolled, and will vote for Sir Thomas.

2. That MR. FORRESTER of Braes (the heir of Napier of Craignannet, No. 43 in the Roll of Michaelmas, 1788, and who died, and was derolled at Michaelmas, 1789), is also ready to vote. He has not yet declared for whom he will vote.

3. MR. MOREHEAD, the younger, will vote for Sir Thomas.

4. MR. DUNDAS of Manor, a liferent vote from Sir Thomas.

5. GENERAL ABERCROMBY, a son of Abercromby of Brucefield, in Clackmannanshire, who, notwithstanding his intimate connections with Mr. Dundas, will, it is said, vote for Sir Thomas.

These 5, added to the foregoing 88, make the Total 93 (besides Mr. Glassford).

SUTHERLANDSHIRE.

THE compiler is less certain in this County than any other about what votes are real and independant, and what liferents. It is, however, of the less consequence, as the influence of the Countess of Sutherland and Earl Gower is almost insurmountable, and has been exerted in the creation of liferent votes which exceed in number those of the real Freeholders. This circumstance, as well as others, has, however, had the effect of exciting discontent among a few ; and perhaps something might be done in opposition to the Gower interest by starting a real proprietor, for instance Mr. Dempster, against it; but such an attempt at next Election, it is thought, would be entirely fruitless.

Roll at Michaelmas, 1788 :—

Votes of Lady Sutherland and Lord Gower.

1. EARL GOWER.
2. MAJOR-GENERAL CHARLES ROSS of Morangie.
3. GENERAL ALEXANDER MACKAY of Strathtongue.

WIGTONSHIRE.

THE leading interests in this County are:—

1. The Earl of Selkirk, a man of disinterested and patriotic principles. Little attached to any party; an independant fortune; and has hitherto interfered very little in the politicks of the County. His eldest son, Lord Daer, is a man of real abilities and ingenuity, and of the most indefatigable industry. He has another son at the English Bar, one in the Navy, and several daughters.

2. The Earl of Stair, who has also a good estate and interest in the County.

3. The Earl of Galloway, who has the chief interest in the County.

4. Sir William Maxwell of Monreith has also a great estate and interest. He is married, and has a family. Is brother to the Dutchess of Gordon, but, it is thought, will go with Opposition.

5. Mr. M'Dowall of Logan, the present representative of the County. Much connected with Mr. Dundas.

6. Mr. M'Dowall of Garthland has a great estate here, and in Renfrewshire. He is the present Member for Airshire, and is attached to Mr. Pitt's Ministry. See Renfrewshire.

APPENDIX A.

OATHS WHICH WERE, OR MIGHT HAVE BEEN,
ADMINISTERED AT A COUNTY ELECTION
MEETING IN 1788 (referred to on pp. xxix and xxx).

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

“I —, do sincerely promise and swear, that I will be faithful, and bear all true allegiance to his Majesty King George. So help me God.”

THE ASSURANCE.

“I —, do in the sincerity of my heart, assert, acknowledge, and declare, that his Majesty King George is the only lawful and undoubted Sovereign of this realm, as well de jure, that is, of right, King, as de facto, that is, in the possession and exercise of the government ; and therefore, I do promise and swear, that I will, with heart and hand, life and goods, maintain and defend his right, title, and government, against the descendants of the person who pretended to be Prince of Wales during the life of the late King James, and since his decease pretended to be, and took upon himself the stile and title of King of England, by the name of James the Third, or of Scotland, by the name of James the Eighth, or the stile and title of King of Great Britain, and their adherents, and all other enemies, who, either by open or secret attempts, shall disturb or disquiet his Majesty in the possession and exercise thereof.”

OATH OF ABJURATION.

" I —, do truly and sincerely acknowledge, profess, testify, and declare, in my conscience, before God and the world, that our Sovereign Lord King George is lawful and rightful King of this realm, and all other his Majesty's dominions and countries thereunto belonging : And I do solemnly and sincerely declare, that I do believe, in my conscience, that not any of the descendants of the person who pretended to be Prince of Wales, during the life of the late King James the Second, and since his death pretended to be, and took upon himself the stile and title of King of England, by the name of James the Third, or of Scotland, by the name of James the Eighth, or the stile and title of King of Great Britain, hath any right or title whatsoever to the Crown of this realm, or any other the dominions thereto belonging ; and I do renounce, refuse, and abjure any allegiance or obedience to any of them ; and I do swear that I will bear faith and true allegiance to his Majesty King George, and him will defend, to the utmost of my power, against all traitorous conspiracies and attempts whatsoever, which shall be made against his person, crown, or dignity ; and I will do my utmost endeavour to disclose and make known to his Majesty, and his successors, all treasons and traitorous conspiracies, which I shall know to be against him, or any of them ; and I do faithfully promise, to the utmost of my power, to support, maintain, and defend the succession of the Crown against the descendants of the said James, and against all other persons whatsoever ; which succession, by an Act, entitled 'An Act for the further limitation of the Crown, and better securing the rights and liberties of the subject,' is, and stands limited to the Princess Sophia, Electress and Duchess Dowager of Hanover, and the heirs of her body, being Protestants : And all these things I do plainly and sincerely acknowledge and swear, according to these express words by me spoken, and according to the plain and common sense and understanding of the same words, without any equivocation, mental evasion, or secret reservation whatsoever ; and I do make this recognition, acknowledgment, abjuration, renunciation, and promise heartily, willingly, and truly, upon the true faith of a Christian. So help me God."

OATH AGAINST BRIBERY, TAKEN BY THE CLERK.

"I —, do solemnly swear, that I have not, directly or indirectly, by way of loan, or other device whatsoever, received any sum or sums of money, office, place or employment, gratuity or reward, or any bond, bill, or note, or any promise of any sum or sums of money, office, place, employment, or gratuity whatsoever, by myself, or any other, to my use or benefit, or advantage, to make any return at the present election of a member to serve in Parliament; and that I will return to the sheriff, or steward, the person elected by the majority of the freeholders upon the roll made up at this election, and who shall be present, and vote, at this meeting. So help me God."

TRUST OATH (see p. xxii).

OATH AGAINST BRIBERY.

"I —, do swear, I have not received, or had by myself, or any person whatsoever in trust for me, or for my use and benefit, directly or indirectly, any sum or sums of money, office, place or employment, gift or reward, or any promise or security for any money, office, employment, or gift, in order to give my vote at this election, and that I have not before been polled at this election."*

THE FORMULA.

"I do sincerely from my heart, profess and declare, before God who searcheth the heart, that I do deny, disown, and abhor these tenets and doctrines of the Papal Romish Church, viz. the supremacy of the Pope and Bishop of Rome over all pastors of the Catholic Church; his power and authority over

* In Scotland the duration of a county election meeting was so brief, and the number of the freeholders so small, that a voter could hardly have polled twice; but the oath was intended to be taken at English elections also.

Kings, Princes, and States, and the infallibility that he pretends to, either without, or with, a general council ; his power of dispensing and pardoning ; the doctrine of transubstantiation, and the corporal presence, with the communion without the cup in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper ; the adoration and sacrifice professed and practised by the Popish Church in the mass ; the invocation of angels and saints ; the worshipping of images, crosses, and relicks ; the doctrine of supererogation, indulgencies, and purgatory ; and the service and worship in an unknown tongue : All which tenets and doctrines of the said Church I believe to be contrary to, and inconsistent with, the written word of God. And I do from my heart deny, disown, and disclaim the said doctrines and tenets of the Church of Rome, as in the presence of God, without any equivocation, or mental reservation, but according to the known and plain meaning of the words, as to me offered and proposed. So help me God."

OATH REGARDING ATTENDANCE AT A NONJURING EPISCOPAL MEETING.

This test was imposed by the Act 19 Geo. II. cap. 38, which declared (sec. 12) that it should be competent for any member of the election meeting to raise the objection (of attending a Nonjuring Episcopal Meeting), "and to prove the same by a witness or witnesses upon oath, or by referring it to oath of the person objected to ; which oath the preses or clerk of such meeting is hereby empowered to administer."
